Standard deduction change for taxpayer

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Sente conferees agreed Tuesday on a new standard deduction that would cut taxes for an estimated 47 million persons but boost the taxes of some 1.7 million single persons.

The spokesmen for the two chambers are working out a compromise version of President Carter's economic stimulus tax bill, passed by the House and Senate in different forms.

With no discussion, they ratified the decision already made by Carter and the Senate to drop the $50 tax rebate payments which the President originally proposed and then scrapped on grounds the recovering economy did not need them.

The conferees wrote into the compromise standard deductions — used by those who do not itemize their charitable gifts, local taxes and other offsets to income — of $2,200 for single persons and $3,200 for couples filing jointly.

Treasury specialists estimated the result would be an average saving of $121 for 47 million taxpayers, but that 1.7 million single persons, who now can take a larger standard deduction, would lose an average of $54 each. The losers would in general be single persons with income above $13,750.

Debate on the deduction touched on the quirk in present law known as the "marriage penalty." Because of the way deductions now are set up, a man and woman with comparable incomes and using the standard deductions pay more tax if they are married than if they share quarters without legal ties.

The new standard deduction would reduce, but not eliminate the "marriage penalty."

"We can't crucify people who marry," Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., told the conference. He said he knows of a case in which marriage cost a couple $5,000 a year and continued, "Over 20 years that's $100,000. If you want people to do the right thing, you have to write a law that will encourage them to do the right thing."

The new standard deduction would replace the provision of present law that allows taxpayers who do not itemize to deduct 16 per cent of their income, with a minimum of $1,700 and a maximum of $2,400 for single persons and a minimum of $2,100 and maximum of $2,800 for married couples.

Two policemen shot to death

L.V. to lobby for freeway

The La Verne City Council lent full support Monday night to the extension of the Foothill Freeway and agreed to send its mayor and city manager to Sacramento to lobby for the project.

The decision came after Mayor Mike M. Morales declared that the state will build the extension in time anyway, but "I hate to think of uprooting thousands of families who will buy homes in the path of the freeway by then."

The Foothill Freeway — Interstate 210 — now ends in La Verne. Legislation has been introduced in the state Assembly to go through with original plans to extend the freeway so it can tie into Interstate 15 at San Bernardino.

City Manager George Caswell told the council that the proposal is scheduled to be heard May 17 before the Assembly's Transportation Committee, and that "we need all the help we can get to get it out on the floor and get it passed."

He said despite a Caltrans study showing that the extension is sorely needed, the administration of Gov. Brown was not supporting the project.

"According to the study, the traffic count is there, the future need based on growth is there, and yet, there is not enough support," he told the council. "Unless our representatives get some help, the proposal may not get on the floor for debate."

He said that even if the project is approved, it will not be built until about 1983.

While the council gave full support to the freeway extension, it was lukewarm to another project — Expo '81.

Promoters of the project to build the worldwide fair at the Ontario Motor Speedway had asked for representation from the city, preferably a councilman, but no one volunteered to serve.

"I guess I'm not too excited about this yet, either," Morales commented. "If we can't get a councilman, we'll try for someone in the community. If that doesn't work out, we'll just appoint some one from the staff to represent us."

THE LAWN RANGER

What has five wheels, two legs, a rotary engine and mows lawns for $2 an hour? The answer is Shana Ellis, 14, of Langview, Wash., who uses a unicycle for locomotion.

Parents of one of three suspects slain a few hours earlier

EL CENTRO (AP) — Two police officers were shot to death today and one of three persons in custody was identified as the son of a couple slain in San Diego hours earlier, authorities said.

The other two were arrested by a force of 20 heavily armed police and sheriff's deputies who stormed a motel on "hotel row" in the west side of El Centro shortly after daybreak, officers said. Bullets were reportedly found, but no resistance took place.

Police in the two cities said this happened:

An east San Diego motel manager and his wife were shot to death about midnight Monday and their car stolen.

About 3:30 a.m., in answer to a telephone complaint about a honking car horn, El Centro police officer Arthur Kenneth Hennesay drove to a motel in that city.

A single bullet apparently fired from a .30-caliber carbine struck Hennesay in the head, killing him about 25 feet from his police cruiser.

Another officer, John Alan Vickers, then drove up and was shot in the chest and neck while still in his car. Vickers, 29, a member of the El Centro poloce force for 18 months, died an hour later in El Centro Community Hospital.

Sgt. Gene Caldwell said he was unable to reach either officer by radio so he left the office and at the motel took Roger Woodhouse, 22, of San Diego into custody.

The bodies of Russell and Loretta Woodhouse, victims of "numerous bullet wounds," police said, were found in their San Diego motel two hours after their son was taken into custody.

Shortly after the El Centro shooting, a couple checked into another motel three blocks away and were arrested there shortly after 8 a.m., police said.

They were identified tentatively as a man and woman with whom the younger Woodhouse said he had been living in his parents' San Diego motel, officers said. All three were taken in for questioning, said police.

The two slain officers were married with children. Hennesay, 42, had been an El Centro policeman for 11½ years.

Pomona faces 26% hike in water rates

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

The city's water needs over the next 10 years will require water rates to be increased by 26 per cent as of July 1, the Pomona City Council was told Monday night.

Water Department Manager James Lundie also said another 20 per cent increase will be needed two years from now.

"Even with these increases Pomona will still enjoy the lowest water rates in the valley," said Lundie.

He told the council that most of the increases are necessary due to inflated power costs and other expenses beyond the control of the city.

Because of a complicated formula for distribution of the increase, the typical Pomona homeowner will not necessarily have to pay a 26 per cent increase in his monthly water bill.

Lundie estimated that the typical homeowner will see his bill increase by just over $1 per month.

"We didn't feel it would be fair to apply a 26 per cent increase across the board," Lundie told the council.

The increase Lundie will propose to the council for formal adoption next week will reward conservation by maintaining a relatively low rate for minimal health and sanitary needs while charging a higher rate for use beyond that level.

The minimum or "life line" need is about 125 gallons per day, for which the unit cost will be 14 cents. Beyond that, with most homes using something over 200 gallons per day, the unit cost will go to about 21 cents.

Commercial and industrial fresh water consumers will also pay the 21-cent price, compared to a current rate of 13 cents for large users.

The proposed rates will no longer give price advantages to increased use.

Lundie based his low projection of increased homeowner cost on the figures indicating Pomona residents are already voluntarily conserving water.

He said over the first three months of this year, water use from the same period one year ago is down by 9 per cent.

Some of the funds generated by the water rate increase will be needed, said Lundie, for development of new wells to meet increased water demands during the next decade.

It costs about $150,000 at present to develop a new well and projections indicate as many as seven additional wells will be needed by 1987.

Councilman Benjamin Ochoa asked Lundie to prepare more detailed information about the need for such an investment.

"I want to be absolutely sure this is the best alternative. We're talking about a lot of money," said Ochoa.

Lundie said it appears certain the wells will be needed to meet "peaking" requirements in the future. The only alternative, he said, would be to construct above-ground reservoirs to meet peaking needs.

"But it costs more to build reservoirs than it does to drill wells," he added.

Carter, Demo leaders split over budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic congressional leaders made clear to President Carter today that they don't share his determination to balance the federal budget, if it means sharp cuts in social and economic programs.

In response, the President told them that his administration remains committed to providing a job for every family in America as soon as possible.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., assistant Senate majority leader, said several members of Congress who attended a White House breakfast expressed concern that the administration was more concerned with budget balancing than with "jobs and helping those who need it."

Cranston said the comments from legislators were a response to an economic briefing Monday at the White House.

At the Monday briefing, administration economic advisers reiterated the Carter campaign pledge to balance the budget by 1981, the end of his four-year term.

Bank robber surrenders to save mom

DOWNEY (AP) — A 22-year-old man who held two bank officers hostage surrendered today after his mother threatened to "do harm to herself" and then disappeared, police said.

Albert Monroe Powers of Downey was taken into custody, but police issued a missing persons report on his mother, Carol Davis, 40, after her family reported she had vanished.

Powers was booked for investigation of robbery and kidnaping and held on $7,500 bail, police said.

He left his perch in a loft above the bank vault around 1 a.m., some 17 hours after he entered the residential Bank of America branch and seven hours after he released his second hostage. No one was hurt in the incident and no shots were fired.

Police Sgt. Jim Mann said Powers was not heard from for several hours after he was given food and released the second hostage at about 6 p.m. Monday. But when a woman who identified herself as his mother called the police station and threatened her own life unless he gave up, "he said he was coming down unarmed."

Police said Mrs. Davis had not been seen by her family since 1 a.m., at about the time the call was made to the police station.

Ontario career day demonstration 'too violent'

School board raps Marines mock battle

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

A mock battle staged by U. S. Marines during a high school "Career Day" in Ontario drew strong criticism from Chaffey school board members Monday night.

Board members called it a "violent military demonstration" and noted it perhaps should not have been staged.

"We don't want to glorify violence," said trustee Ray Sarrio.

Board member Charles Uhalley and Sarrio voiced displeasure with the Marines' demonstration last week at Chaffey High School's football field. They said other events during "Career Day" were excellent, but the military exhibition placed too much emphasis on violence.

"It's unfortunate the military emphasized their combat role," said Uhalley. "They could have brought out their job offerings. We have seen how violence affects the human element. That exhibition brought back unpleasant memories."

John Kunysz, student board member, said, "It was incredible when they had an attack at the end. I agree, it was too much emphasis on violence."

Sarrio and Uhalley agreed the district should investigate the "content" of "Career Day" programs in the future.

Uhalley noted the military has a right to be on campus during a "Career Day" for students, since it is a large employer. "But I'm against the violence part," he said.

Sarrio said one newspaper ran a picture of a Marine "grinning as he fired a machine gun. That's not our example of teaching," he said.

Assistant Supt. Robert Erickson said the person who planned the event heard about the demonstration but "didn't know it was a full regiment."

Pregnancy test is near-perfect

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Doctors here say they have evaluated a new pregnancy test and found it to be nearly perfect.

The test was 99.5 per cent accurate in 544 cases evaluated over an 11-month period at Deaconess Hospital here.

Dr. Jack Lippes, chairman of obstetrics at the hospital, said the new blood test can confirm pregnancy in a woman as early as one day after menstruation was to have begun. The test also can indicate at that early date if the pregnancy is abnormal, he said.

State briefs

Leslie Van Houten trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A former follower of Charles Manson who was once drugged with an LSD-laced hamburger says Manson was obsessed with the idea of starting a race war.

Testifying at the murder retrial of onetime high school beauty queen Leslie Van Houten, Barbara Hoyt told jurors Monday that the cult leader was abnormally attracted to a record album by the Beatles singing group which contained the words "Helter Skelter."

"He (Manson) told us the Beatles were prophesying Helter Skelter," the 25-year-old Miss Hoyt said. "Helter Skelter was about the war that was coming."

Manson, Miss Van Houten and two others were convicted in the grisly 1969 Tate-LaBianca killings.

Miss Van Houten's conviction was reversed because her attorney died during the trial and his replacement was inadequately prepared for the case. She is being retried on charges of murder in the deaths of grocery store owner Leno LaBianca and his wife, Rosemary, and of conspiracy in the killing of actress Sharon Tate and four others the previous night.

New attoney for Harrises?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—William and Emily Harris' intention to make their trial on charges of kidnaping Patricia Hearst a political one requires defense attorneys deeply committed to them, the California Supreme Court has been told.

Mark Rosenbaum asked the court Monday to reverse a Superior Court judge's selection of two attorneys to defend the Harrises at state expense. The Harrises have said they have no faith in Lincoln Mintz and Michael Ballachey.

The Harrises want Los Angeles lawyer Leonard Weinglass, who was their chief defense attorney in a trial last year, and San Francisco lawyer Susan Jordan to represent them.

Pete Wilkinson, arguing on behalf of Alameda County where the trial will be held, told the court that Mintz and Ballachey met all the legal requirements and were "competent beyond dispute."

Wilkinson said that the state was under no obligation to appoint defense lawyers whose political activism was compatible with the defendants.

In several pre-trial hearings, the Harrises have called their prosecution politically motivated and said they expect their trial to lean heavily toward political ideology.

Rosenbaum contended that the defendants had an established relationship with Weinglass and Ms. Jordan and that a "state of trust" existed between them.

Gov. Brown leads in poll

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. is the hands-down favorite of a cross-section of Californians over three leading Republican contenders for the governor's job according to a poll released today.

Pollster Mervin Field conducted the mid-March survey of 962 California adults, including 529 Democrats and 308 Republicans.

Asked who they would vote for "if the election for Governor was being held today," the majority picked Brown when he was paired with Republican hopefuls Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger, Los Angeles Police Chief Edward Davis and San Diego Mayor Pete Wilson.

According to the poll, former Governor Ronald Reagan would fair best against the Democratic governor, though most of the adults surveyed still prefered Brown.

Field said he asked people to choose between Brown and Reagan, one of the best-known Republicans anywhere, to test whether his results showed that the governor was simply better known than the three potential Republican opponents.

Younger made the strongest showing of the three, the choice of 30 per cent against 55 per cent for Brown. About 15 per cent had no preference between the two.

Brown earned 57 per cent of the "votes" when paired against Davis, who got 24 per cent, Field said. About 19 per cent had no choice.

When Wilson was matched with the governor, 57 per cent supported Brown to 20 per cent for Wilson, while 23 per cent didn't know.

Water penalty plan viewed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mayor Tom Bradley's plan to penalize Los Angeles residents who waste water is being scrutinized by city lawmakers.

The City Council Water and Power Committee is looking at Bradley's five-phase ordinance containing sanctions for such water-wasting activities as hosing down sidewalks, overwatering lawns and gardens and letting hoses run while washing cars.

The mayor called for mandated reductions in water usage up to 25 per cent after his blueribbon water advisory committee recommended the conservation measures.

If an ordinance is adopted in its present form, water customers would be notified by July 1 how much water they used last year and would then be required to use 10 per cent less. Also, customers would face a 15 per cent increase in their monthly bills and a $1 surcharge.

Baker probable GOP leader

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee is probably the Republican presidential frontrunner for 1980 — if there is a frontrunner, the Democratic national chairman says.

"I would just say that if people were placing bets now that Sen. Baker would get better odds then the others," Kenneth Curtis said Monday when asked about possible GOP challengers to President Carter.

Curtis, in California for meetings with Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. and other top Democrats, said he didn't think Brown was in Carter's dog house because of Brown's last-minute drive for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination.

"I don't think anybody's in Jimmy Carter's dog house," he said. "The last time I was at the White House Jerry Brown was there so I think that speaks for itself."

He said he didn't think Carter was worried about a 1980 challenge from Brown or any other Democrat, although he said he didn't think such a challenge was out of the question.

"I do not think that in today's politics anything is unthinkable," he said. "It's our hope that the President will be so strong that any challenge made will be insignificant."

Tuna fleet sets sail again

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The U.S. tuna fleet will sail Wednesday while environmentalists, the industry and Congress work out a compromise on how many porpoises can die in a tuna catch, an industry official says.

August Felando, general manageer of the American Tuna Boat Association, sent a telegram to Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., announcing the resumption of sailing.

Cranston, who is working with a coalition of 14 environmental groups and the tuna industry on the compromise, urged the sailing because "for the fleet to stay in port now would be to simply prolong needlessly the economic agony of San Diego and other communities."

The fleet, centered here, has not sailed since Feb. 12 in protest of federal porpoise-protection regulations the industry says make tuna fishing impossible.

On grounds of senility

McComb forced to retire

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In an extraordinary action, a special judicial panel has forced the retirement of 82-year-old state Supreme Court Justice Marshall F. McComb on grounds of senility.

The action Monday, unprecedented in California history, left McComb, who served for 20 years on the high court, with a pension of more than $31,000 a year.

The panel, composed of seven state appellate court justices, declined to take the severe disciplinary course of removing McComb from office without pension in spite of what was termed "specific instances of bizarre behavior."

The judges concurred with a finding of the Commission on Judicial Performance that Justice McComb is suffering from senile dementia "that seriously interferes with the performance of his judicial duties and that the disability is, or is likely to become, permanent."

McComb was accused of falling asleep on the bench, doing exercises in court and failing to attend court sessions and deliberations. McComb denied the allegations and charged that the proceeding was unconstitutional.

The tribunal wrote, "Balancing the gravity of the conduct against the reason for it and the public interest in an effective judiciary we conclude that discipline in the form of removal from office or reprimand is not appropriate. The public is sufficiently served by the retirement of Justice McComb."

It was the first time the removal process had been invoked under an amendment to the state's Constitution approved by voters last November. The amendment provides for charges to be brought by the commission and the decision to be rendered by the special tribunal of appellate justices.

McComb, who will be 83 on Friday, was suspended in January after the commission recommended that he be removed or retired from the bench.

McComb's 67-year-old wife, Margaret, appointed his permanent conservator Feb. 28, had asked that he be retired from the court.

Phillips Ranch development plans likely to be OK'd

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

Development plans for the Phillips Ranch in southwest Pomona were reviewed by the Pomona City Council in a study session Monday night and appeared likely for formal approval next week.

"I'm impressed and very pleased. Let's get going," said Mayor Charles Bader after viewing drawings and floor plans for homes in the three tentative tracts that have been approved by the city's planning commission.

Those tracts contain more than 1,100 homesites, and up to five more developers may submit tracts boosting the number of lots to about 2,500 — about 400 of which might be built upon in the next year.

Council approval of the tracts will be an implicit part of a zone change hearing next week. That change, from conventional residential zones to "planned residential development," drew no criticism from council members Monday night and appears headed for certain passage. sage.

In addition to reviewing the house plans for the Phillips Ranch, the council also received a report about the sewer system in south Pomona, which includes the Phillips Ranch.

Ron Kranzer, director of public works, reported that sewage from the southern third of the city has to be pumped uphill to the Los Angeles County Sanitation District treatment plant at Elephant Hill.

Although necessary, the uphill pumping of sewage is very expensive, said Kranzer, estimating $1 million in energy costs will be sustained over the next 10 years.

In addition, the city faces anywhere from a $65,000 to $225,000 expense later this year to boost the pumping capacity of the system to provide service to the Phillips Ranch development.

David Wagner, consultant to the city studying the sewage system, told the council that long range planning may some day eliminate such large energy consumption.

He suggested that the city might consider building its own treatment plant or enter into an expansion program of a Chino plant that could serve the area by gravity flow.

Such plants are usually primarily financed by federal money, and the potential for energy savings will become an increasingly strong argument for such a plan.

Although all the costs outlined by Kranzer seemed large, he reminded the council that the city is fortunate that the present county treatment plant can handle all the growth anticipated for the Phillips Ranch.

"Unlike our neighbors to the east, sewage treatment capacity is not an issue," said Kranzer.

The reference to the "east" is the West End of San Bernardino County, where water quality officials have clamped a lid on new growth because sewage treatment plants are already operating at maximum capacity.

ALL DANCED OUT

Ontario girl crowned queen for Fiesta de los Barrios '77

Roberta Espinoza, daughter of Robert and Minnie Espinoza of Ontario, has been crowned queen of the Fiesta de los Barrios 1977.

Miss Espinoza was crowned during a coronation dance at the Pantry Hall in Rialto attended by 600 persons throughout San Bernardino, Riverside and Los Angeles counties. Bardo Sanchez, KKAR disc jockey, served as master of ceremonies and KCAL disc jockey Alfredo Gonzales crowned the queen.

The queen contest was sponsored by the Inland Empire Cinco de Mayo Committee which has charge of regional Cinco de Mayo festivities, culminating with the fiesta at Ontario Motor Speedway Thursday through Sunday and a parade in Ontario Saturday morning.

Miss Espinoza, 16, is a student at Chaffey High School. She was sponsored by Super Hair of Chino and plans to become a cosmetologist.

As queen, she will reign over all the events of the Inland Empire Cinco de Mayo Committee and participate in Chicano events during the year. She also won a trip to Mexico City for a week.

Others on the royal court include Irene Hernandez, 17, of Colton, first runner-up; and Anna Maria Valenzuela, 20, of San Bernardino, second runner-up.

The 12 young ladies selected to represent the various communities of the Inland Empire during Cinco de Mayo festivities are Lisa Navarrette, Alta Loma; Marcelina Herrera, Bloomington; Bonnie Rivera, Casa Blanca; Yvonne Aponte, Colton; Yvonne Teresa Santana, Cucamonga; Roberta Mendez, Montclair; Judy Estrada, Ontario; Lucille Molina, Redlands; Sylvia Juarez, Rialto; Lola Alvarado, San Bernardino; Elena Artiaga, Upland; and Dolores Cabrera, Pomona.

Juvenile hall training center funds okayed

San Bernardino County supervisors Monday approved an ordinance to allow more than $20,000 in subsidy payments from the state for a unique juvenile hall training facility that opened last January.

The county's probation department established a 20-bed community responsibility training unit to provide a treatment program for juvenile boys sentenced to juvenile hall from 30 days to six months.

The unit provides formal and vocational education for the youngsters.

Bernard M. Boress, administrator of the county's law and justice agency, said the grouping of youngsters into treatment units qualifies the county to receive state subsidy payments to $95 per month per youth.

Boress estimates the county could realize an additional $20,000 per year in revenues under the program.

To meet state requirements, county supervisors were required to pass an ordinance amending the present county code and officially recognizing the treatment unit.

Figure set at 5.5 per cent

Chaffey teachers request pay hike

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Teachers in the Chaffey school district asked the board of trustees Monday night for a 5.5 per cent salary increase, retroactive to July 1, 1976.

In the first proposal under the new collective bargaining law, the Associated Chaffey Teachers (ACT) noted the 5.5 per cent boost for 1976-77 would be in addition to a 4per cent increase granted by the board last fall.

Teachers had been unable to negotiate with the board this year because of a dispute over who could be included in the bargaining unit. Also, two teacher groups were competing to be sole bargaining agent. But ACT won that right in an April 20 election.

Fringe benefits, working conditions and grievance procedures are also covered in the initial proposal presented by Sherry Rutledge, ACT president.

Employes are asking for fully-paid health insurance premiums for teachers who retire at 55, provided the instructor had served five consecutive years in the district prior to retirement.

A grievance procedure which includes a third party to settle grievances also is being requested by employes.

"Grievances now are settled by the school board and have never come out in favor of the grievant (one making the claim)," said Miss Rutledge.

Board members received the salary request without comment. Under the law, a public hearing on the plan and a board response must be heard before negotiations can begin.

Ray Sarrio, acting board chairman, said the request would be taken "under advisement."

The district has seven high schools in the West End of San Bernardino County.

Blood pressure clinic scheduled

The Claremont Red Cross will hold a blood pressure screening clinic Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the chapter house, 2065 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

There is no charge, and appointments aren't needed. Persons should have their blood pressures tested to determine if they have high blood pressure, said Kay Griffith, chapter director.

Marijuana smokers 'phonier' than nonsmokers, study claims

TORONTO (AP) — Marijuana smokers who think a joint puts them in closer touch with other people's feelings are victims of the weed's distorting powers, a study indicates.

In a test of warmth, empathy and genuineness, the stoned persons seemed "phonier" than those who did not smoke marijuana, a research team reported Monday.

A few people, however, became more communicative, although the psychiatrists couldn't say why.

The research team headed by Dr. David S. Janowski of the University of California at San Diego is among the first, he said, to explore interpersonal effects of marijuana. Other studies have tested what happens to intellectual powers and mood under the drug's influence — but not its alteration of friendship or marriage, for instance.

"One of the reasons we chose marijuana," Janowski told a session of the American Psychiatric Association's 130th Annual Meeting, "is that some therapists told us their patients would say, 'Gee, Doc, why don't you get high with us and see what it's like. You would be so much warmer and more empathetic and communicative.'"

Janowski matched 20 male mental health workers — all occasional marijuana users — with 20 females who would play the role of troubled partners. Only males can be given marijuana experimentally under federal guidelines.

Each couple held a 25-minute interview, with the woman talking about a difficult time in her life and the man attempting to be helpful. Later, the male "therapist" smoked a cigarette, which in half the cases was marijuana and in the other half an inactive substitute, and a second 25-minute interview was held.

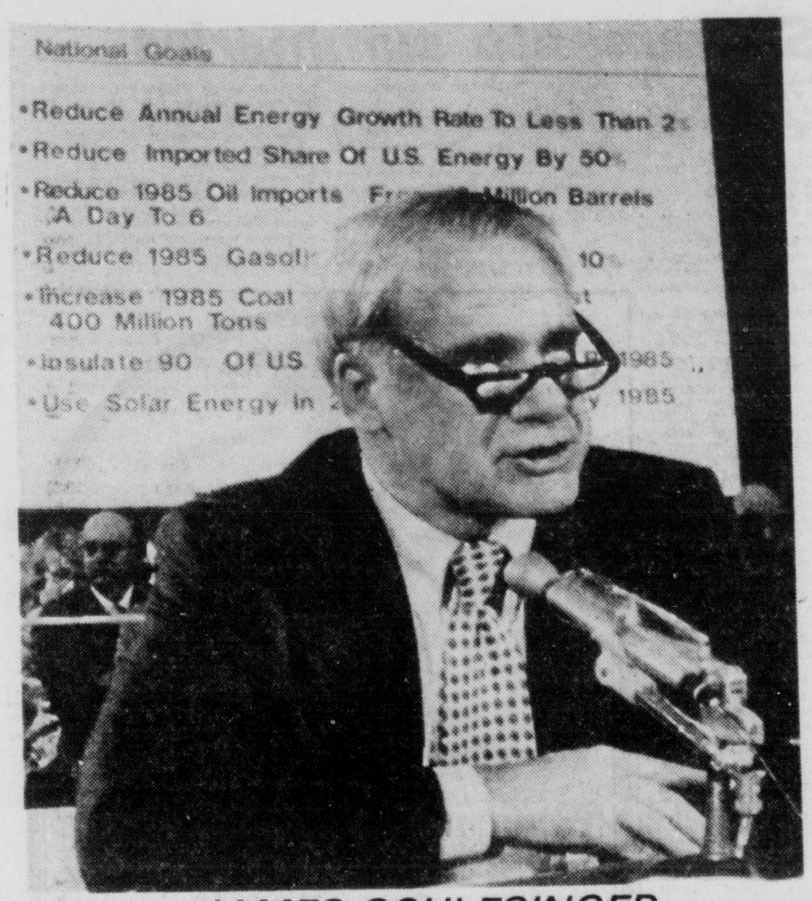

After each talk, both partners filled out questionnaires designed to measure traits such as genuineness, warmth, empathy, acceptance of the other person.

Sample questions given the women included whether: "He respected me," "He cared for me," "He wanted to understand how I see things" and "He was truly interested in me."

In addition, a third person watched videotapes of the 25-minute sessions and rated the therapist-smoker using a psychological yardstick called the Raskin Empathy Scale.

The results showed that the troubled partners felt the men were more concerned, warm and empathetic when the cigarettes they had smoked were not marijuana.

"The therapists seemed more phony under the marijuana condition," said Janowski.

JAMES SCHLESINGER

Schlesinger before committee

Energy policy defended

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House energy adviser James R. Schlesinger today urged Congress not to tamper with major provisions of President Carter's energy program, which he called carefully balanced to "distribute benefits and burdens equitably" among Americans.

"Many groups will find in this bill provisions which will impose burdens or sacrfice upon them," said Schlesinger. "The temptation to seek exemptions from burdens and sacrifices will be very strong, but the United States will solve its energy problem only if it adopts a plan that is fair and any fair plan will impose burdens on everyone."

Schlesinger also told the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee that the President's proposal for a standby gasoline tax of up to 50 cents a gallon, perhaps the single most controversial element of the program, "would provide a challenge to the American people to meet a common goal."

Noting that the tax would be levied in five-cent-a-gallon increments if gasoline consumption exceeds specified goals, Schlesinger said, "This represents the type of challenge Americans have been so successful in meeting in the past and will likely meet in the future."

The White House adviser also held out the possibility that the administration would consider mandatory conservation measures "such as requiring that houses be insulated before they are sold," if the nation does not respond to financial incentives to save energy.

Carter's bill would give tax breaks to home owners and businesses for insulation and solar energy. However, the program would be voluntary.

Schlesinger's testimony was the first discussion of the sweeping energy program before Congress by an administration official since the President presented it to a joint session of Congress on April 20.

Committee Chairman Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., told Schlesinger, "I expect we'll report to the Senate most of those parts of the program which come to this committee."

However, Jackson said the administration must provide "convincing answers" to a number of questions about the legislation, such as how much energy it would actually save and its economic impact.

Schlesinger said that the plan would have a relatively small impact on the economy but cautioned that "rather, we should focus on the economic consequences of not dealing with the energy problem effectively."

He said that if energy consumption exceeds demand by the mid-1980's as several government analyses have indicated, this would have severe adverse effects on the whole U.S. economy.

The President's program also calls for a stiff tax on gas-guzzling automobiles and corresponding rebates for fuel-efficient vehicles; new taxes on domestic oil that would allow oil prices to rise to world market levels within two years; and higher prices for natural gas.

Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., complained that the administration plan does not offer enough encouragement for increased energy production.

But Schlesinger countered that the Carter plan "would yield revenues greater than those available to oil producers anywhere in the world."

Quoting Winston Churchill, Schlesinger declared, "make no small plans. they have not the magic to stir the souls of men. We have followed this maxim in developing our plan."

La Bounty named to head Cal Poly

Hugh O. La Bounty Jr., Cal Poly Pomona executive vice president, has been chosen to assume the responsibilities of university president when Robert C. Kramer leaves the campus early this summer for a post with the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, Battle Creek, Mich.

La Bounty's appointment was announced by Glenn S. Dumke, chancellor of the California State University and Colleges (CSUC). La Bounty will serve as chief administrator of the university until a full presidential search can be completed.

La Bounty was appointed executive vice president in January 1976 and served as acting president from February through June of that year while Kramer was on leave.

During his tenure at Cal Poly he has held the positions of chairman of social sciences and coordinator for teacher education; executive dean for Cal Poly, Pomona and San Luis Obispo, when the two were co-administered; dean of the college; and as vice president for academic affairs.

HUGH O. La BOUNTY

He joined the Cal Poly faculty in 1953 as a member of the English department, later serving as its chairman. Prior to his Cal Poly appointment he held a teaching and administrative position with Citrus high school and junior college.

Traffic victims remain in hospital

Two persons injured in weekend traffic accidents in Pomona remained in Pomona Valley Community Hospital today, one in serious condition and the other fair.

Lisa A. Andrusco, 14, of Pomona, suffered a head injury Sunday night when the motorcycle on which she was a passenger was involved in a collision with an auto. The accident was at Garey and McKinley avenues. The driver of the motorcycle was injured less seriously. Lisa's condition was described as critical at one time.

And 2-year-old Dashell Fishback, of Pomona, was in fair condition, under treatment for injuries suffered near his home Sunday morning. The child was struck by a car as the driver backed from an apartment complex at 1566 S. Garey Ave., police reported.

U.S., Vietnamese open talks in Paris

PARIS (AP) — The U.S. and Vietnamese governments opened talks today amid expectations of a speedy agreement to establish diplomatic relations. But Hanoi's official newspaper indicated the agreement might not be concluded until the United States agreed to give its recent foe the help in reconstruction it has been demanding.

"The talks won't drag on," said one diplomatic source. However, Nhan Dan, the Communist party newspaper in Hanoi, commented: "Three problems remain between Vietnam and the United States: the normalization of relations, the American servicemen missing in action and the U.S. contribution to healing the wounds of war in Vietnam, and the three are interrelated."

The article said Vietnam is making efforts to speed up the search for remains of the missing Americans, and "results obtained in the process of investigation and research will be communicated to the United States as soon as possible."

But it said America's silence on war reconstruction aid "is not right and is not in line with the professed desire of the U.S. to open a new dialogue, a new era in the relations between the two countries.

"To make the current dialogue successful the attitude of the U.S. must suit realities and U.S. statements."

Richard Holbrooke, the assistant secretary of state for Southeast Asian affairs, and Vice Foreign Minister Phan Hien led the two delegations at the first meeting in the gleaming white pagoda-shaped Vietnamese embassy which Premier Pham Van Dong opened recently.

Youth robbed of bike

A 17-year-Pomona youth was robbed of his 10-speed bicycle late Monday afternoon by three youths, two of whom were riding bikes themselves and one of whom was armed with a switchblade knife. The victim was stopped in a field at Phillips and Hamilton boulevards by the three. After threatening him with the knife, they took his bike and all pedaled away, leaving the victim afoot.

American student critical

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Gerardo Paredes, a 21-year-old American student injured when police broke up a May Day demonstration, remained in critical condition today, his doctors said.

Paredes, from Baldwin Park, Calif., underwent open heart surgery at Santa Cruz y San Pablo Hospital after being hit by a rubber bullet while watching the demonstration from a third-floor balcony.

He suffered damage to the left ventricle and internal bleeding, the doctors said.

Pistol shot frightens off would-be robber

The owner of the Big Eye Adult Bookstore fired a shot, frightening off a would-be robber Monday night at 1742 S. Euclid Ave., Ontario, police reported.

Police said the store owner, Jerry Morris, 41, called police about 10:45 p.m. to report the incident. Morris told officers he was watching television when he saw a man armed with a snub-nosed revolver slip inside the door.

Morris said he grabbed a revolver from underneath the counter and pointed it at the suspected robber. He said the man dropped to the floor and he fired one shot.

Morris said he did not believe he had hit the man.

Police said the robber then crawled out of the store, got up and fled on foot.

The man was described as a Latin, 20 years of age, 5 feet 5, 120 pounds with black hair and brown eyes. He was wearing a light green jacket and tan pants. He had shoulder-length hair and a thin moustache.

Upland home burglarized

Burglars using channel locks forced their way into an Upland home in the 1300 block of west 11th Street Monday morning and stole stereo equipment, a tape recorder, a clock, and other items valued at more than $1,000, according to Upland police.

San Dimas man hurt in crash

A 23-year-old San Dimas man was injured in Pomona Monday evening when his automobile ran off the Corona Expressway, hit a sign and traveled down an embankment. The driver, James T. Simpson, did not require immediate medical attention, however, police reported. The accident occurred north of Second Street.

Youth remains critical week after shooting

Jessie Gomez, the 16-year-old youth shot in the head more than a week ago as he stood in front of the Palomares Park Center in Pomona, remained in critical condition today in Pomona Valley Community Hospital's intensive care unit.

Gomez, of Pomona, was shot from a passing car. Witnesses said there were several persons inside the auto and that several shots were fired as it was driven past the building. The center had been rented for a dance by the Claremont Colleges' Chicano Studies Center that night.

Irish workers defy strike call

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Workers poured into Northern Ireland's factories, shops and offices today in defiance of a general strike called by militant Protestants in an attempt to force the British army to open an offensive against the Irish Republican Army.

The Belfast Telegraph estimated at midmorning that 80 to 90 per cent of Belfast's workers were on the job, and the turnout was nearly 100 per cent in Londonderry, which has a large Roman Catholic population. But it said about 60 per cent of the workers heeded the strike call in some mostly Protestant areas.

Tools valued at $10,000 taken by thief

Burglars broke a rear window of the Farrar Aviation Co. offices at 325 W. Main St., Ontario, early Monday and stole a number of aircraft tools and precision instruments valued at more than $10,000, according to Ontario police.

The burglary was reported about 2 p.m. Monday by a company employer who noticed the broken rear window and the missing tools and instruments.

Blowtorch used by school vandals

Someone apparently used a blowtorch to burn the word "Drugs" and the number "77" at the entrance to Claremont High School's library during the weekend, police reported Monday. The vandalism was discovered by librarian aide Winifred M. Jackson. The damage was estimated at $200.

Protesters put strain on state

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — While 1,414 anti-nuclear protesters are in custody at four state armories, New Hampshire is paying about 500 National Guardsmen $35 per man per day — or close to $20,000 daily to wtch over them.

Then there's the yet-to-come food bill for the demonstrators, including catering service from Burger King for a fast-food dinner Monday night, from McDonald's for breakfast today, and for assorted other costs.

And not to mention the inconvenience to Guardsmen called from their higher-paying civilian jobs to active duty. In most cases, they do not draw their civilian pay, although some provisions are made by individual employers, according to Guard officials.

The protesters, most of them in their 20s, were arrested and arraigned on charges of criminal trespassing, a misdemeanor, after refusing to end a peaceful weekend camp-in at the construction site of the Seabrook Nuclear power plant, about 50 miles east of this state capitol.

They declined to post bail, which ranged from $100 to $500. The explanation for the colossal housekeeping headache is that this small state, with a population of less than one million, does not have jail facilities for confinement of such a large group at one time.

Court authorities say hearings will be held as soon as they can be arranged. Robin Read, a spokesman for the Clamshell Alliance, which sponsored the demonstration, said the protesters plan to remain in custody until court hearings have been completed.

The demonstrators were being confined Monday night in the drill sheds of the armories, which are assembly halls used also for athletics and recreation. Some of the protesters were observed exercising.

There are no cots available, so the young men and women used sleeping bags.

"Most of these people, when they moved into Seabrook, came well prepared with sleeping bags, blankets and tents," said Maj. Chris C. Agrafiotis, 42, the Guard's director of military support. "At the time of their arrest, they were allowed to bring all of their gear with them so they are well prepared to stay the night and any number of nights."

An Associated Press newsman who went to the Concord Armory Monday night was not permitted to enter the 100-foot-long by 60-foot-wide assembly hall where nearly 300 of the demonstrators were being kept. The newsman was permitted to observe the group from a large window on the second floor, but no photographs were allowed.

Waves break up oil spill

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Fifteen-foot waves were reported dissipating the last traces of the North Sea oil spill from Bravo rig as the weather continued to cooperate today in the cleanup operation.

"What we need is two days of calm to skim the worst of the oil off, then a good storm to break down the rest," said a pollution expert on Saturday a few hours after the Phillips Petroleum company's runaway well in Norway's offshore Ekofisk field was capped.

The cleanup ships had two days of near calm to pump most of the thicker portions of the spill off the seas around the Ekofisk complex of rigs. Then the waves built up late Monday, breaking up the remaining minutely thin layer of "blue shine" which a spokesman for Phillips said "will disappear quickly under natural sea action."

The Bravo 14 well spilled an estimated 8.2 million gallons of oil into the sea during the eight-day blowout, but the light weight of the oil helped to minimize the effect on marine life and currents kept it away from the coasts of Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Scotland.

The Norwegian government allowed Phillips to resume pumping 20,000 tons a day of crude oil from two other rigs in the Ekofisk field, and a crew was cleaning up Bravo rig in preparation for reopening the 15 wells that feed through it. A Phillips spokesman said damage to the rig was less than the company feared.

However, the government said its oil directorate would have to approve the company's repair plan before Bravo could resume production.

The government ordered the field shut down last Thursday. It estimated it lost at least $56.6 million in royalties and taxes because of the blowout and the shutdown.

Obituary

Otis Hight

Otis Hight of 614 Tulare Way, Upland died Sunday at the San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland.

Mr. Hight was born Nov. 19, 1902 in Putnam, Tex. and had been an Upland resident for 12 years. Prior to moving to Upland, he was a Pomona resident for 20 years. He was last employed as a truck driver for the Los Angeles County Fair.

Scattered showers reported

By The Associated Press

Scattered showers and thundershowers were reported across much of the nation today, and temperatures generally were mild.

The rainfall continued across Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee, but decreased in intensity, compared to Monday. A few of the storms have produced substantial rainfall.

Scattered showers and thundershowers also covered eastern Nebraska, western Iowa and northeastern Kansas. A few very heavy thunderstorms were reported in west-central Texas.

Elsewhere scattered showers and thundershowers were reported along the central Atlantic Coast and rainshowers across the Pacific Northwest and northern Idaho.

Temperatures this morning were mild across most of the nation, with readings ranging from the 30s in northern New England, upper Michigan and the higher elevations of the Rockies to the 80s in the deserts of Arizona and California.

24 Poles defect

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Twenty-four Poles who came to the Denmark-Poland soccer match in Copenhagen last Sunday have asked for political asylum in West Germany, the West German Embassy reported today.

An embassy spokesman said about half of the defectors claimed to have families living in West Germany. He said those who did would be given asylum quickly, but the others would be studied closely. Any whose applications were rejected would be left to the Danish government to decide their fate, he said.

"Maintenance: Cut Air-Conditioning Costs" will be presented by J. Johnny Moore from Kelly-Moore Paint Co.

"Cutting Plumbing Costs" will be presented by Russ Destro from Rite Plumbing Specialties.

"Tenant Selection" will be presented by Duane Gomer, a certified property manager. There will be a question and answer period following the programs. Lunch is included.

Library program

Two programs highlight Pomona Public Library's celebration of Cinco de Mayo this week.

A pinata-making craft for young people is scheduled for today from 3:30 to 5 p.m.

On Saturday, two films about the Mexican experience will be screened in the Library's Story Theater beginning at 3 p.m.

The two films, "And Now Miguel" and "I Am Joaquin," have a total running time of 83 minutes.

George recognized

G. Worth George, executive director of Pilgrim Place, Claremont, was proclaimed a Fellow in the American College of Nursing Home Administrators in recognition "of service beyond the ordinary professional demands and continued adherence to the ethical and professional standards of the college."

Pilgrim Place is the religious and cultural center in Claremont where 300 retired Christian workers make their home.

George's advancement to Fellow represents the highest level membership the college can bestow on a member.

Square dancing

The Steeltown Twirlers will hold a "May Pole Dance" Saturday from 8 to 11 p.m. at the Kaiser Steel Gym in Fontana.

Sammy Phillips will call. All club level dancers may attend.

SCE earnings gain

Southern California Edison Co.'s first quarter recorded earnings amounted to $1.07 per share, 41 per cent greater than the 76 cents per share in the comparable three months of 1976, T.M. McDaniel Jr., president, reported to the annual meeting of shareholders April 21.

Net income was $69 million on operating revenues of $527 million. This compared with net income of $47 million and operating revenues of $439 million in the same quarter a year ago.

For the 12 months ending March 31, earnings were $4.02 per share, as against $3.19 per share during the comparable 12 months when fewer common shares were outstanding.

Glider injuries fatal

A 26-year-old Glendora man critically injured in a hang glider accident near Cucamonga Canyon in Alta Loma on March 19 died Friday at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland.

According to the San Bernardino County Coroner's office, Scott Newman of 408 E. Lindfield St., Glendora died at 7:46 p.m. Friday of multiple internal injuries.

West End Sheriff's deputies reported the man took off in his hang glider from the 5,000 foot level of Cucamonga Peak and sailed downward. For some reason the kite brace broke and he fell to earth.

Pomona's participation in center

Claremont computer needs viewed

What computers do now and what they will be expected to do in the future are two questions wanting answers by the Pomona school board following a recent meeting on the district's data processing needs.

The district has been part of a data processing consortium through the Claremont school district where Pomona pays about $80,000 a year for its computer time.

The Claremont computer is 17 years old and, according to Pomona school district Supt. Charles Carpenter, is "on its last legs."

Dennis Vlasich of the Claremont Computer Center, told the school board recently that replacing the old computer with new equipment would cost the district an additional $70,000 to $100,000 on top of its $80,000 rental fee. The IBM computer experienced 300 hours of down time last year.

The board asked the administration to return to tonight's meeting of the board with a report detailing the district's present computer needs and how those needs might expand over the next three to five years. At present, district computer functions include bookkeeping, student scheduling, grade reports and may be expanded in the future to perform assessments for special education programs and provisions of the Hart bill.

The board discussed several options to rejoining the Claremont center. Among them were a computer affiliation with the City of Pomona, the office of the county superintendent of schools, or the purchase and operation of its own computer system.

Trustee Eugene Whitlock presented figures which he said showed how the district could own and operate its own computer system at a saving to the district.

Golden agers

The financial fortunes of older Americans are expected to improve significantly in the years ahead. Between 1975 and 1985, the personal income of those 55 years and over is projected to rise from $240 billion, or about $5,000 per person, to over $360 billion, a jump of 50 per cent.

Fourteen valley students were among the 2,361 who received diplomas at the 102nd commencement April 22 at BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY in Provo, Utah.

They are James W. Scadlock of Alta Loma; Jan Gustaveson of Claremont; Susan Faith Ellsworth of Diamond Bar; Melanee Anne Cherry, Richard Lewis Cope and Karen Dawn Sinclair of Glendora; Carolyn Jean Hillman of Hacienda Heights; Caroline Nelson Howe of La Puente; Clifford Elwood Jones and Mark Dewint Low of Ontario; Robert Jerry Denkers of Pomona; Kathy Ann Frodsham of Rowland Heights and F. LaVar Christensen and Rebecca Elaine Loeb of Upland.

Brigham Young University is owned by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

E. Clay Maddox has joined the SAWYER COLLEGE at Pomona administrative staff as Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) coordinator.

Maddox is in charge of both Sawyer's CETA classroom and on-the-job training programs.

A Loma Linda resident he received his B.S. in business administration from Pacific Union College in Angwin. During that time, he spent a year in Austria on Pacific Union's study abroad program. Maddox was a staff accountant for a Redlands certified public accounting firm.

Dr. Robert T. McLean, Monrovia veterinarian and member of CITRUS COLLEGE board of trustees since 1974, is now serving as president of the board.

He was elected to that position recently after completing a one-year term as vice president. He has also served as board secretary and as vice president and president of Citrus College Foundation.

Dr. McLean is a graduate of the School of Veterinary Medicine, Kansas State University. He has practiced his profession for more than 40 years and is now semi-retired.

He is associated with Santa Anita Small Animal Hospital, Monrovia, and is a member of several professional organizations including American Veterinary Medical Association, California Veterinary Medical Association and the San Gabriel Chapter of Southern California Veterinary Medical Association.

Dr. McLean was appointed to the board, representing Monrovia residents, in September, 1974, to fill an unexpired term. He was re-elected in March, 1975, for a four-year term.

Seven hundred natural scientists, social scientists, engineers and technologists will participate in the two-day Southern Califoria Academy of Sciences (SCAS) annual meeting at CAL POLY POMONA Friday and Saturday.

The meeting will consist of two symposia, Energy and Environment and Endangered Species, two contributed papers sections, exhibits, demonstrations of scientific equipment and a poster session.

The program begins at 1 p.m. Friday with the symposium on Energy and Environment. The three-session Endangered Species symposium follows at 8 p.m. Friday and continues throughout Saturday.

Energy and Environment will address the assessment of load management opportunities and utility conservation; peak-load pricing in Europe; economic considerations for crude oil production in frontier areas; Alaskan crude oil pricing and the California coastal impact of Alaskan crude oil shipments; and regulatory standards and electrical energy consumption.

The symposium on endangered species will include presentations and discussions on species preservation; endangered reptiles and amphibians in California; the status of Peregrine Falcons and marine mammals in California; the California Condor; endangered fishes and the courts; rare plants; sand dunes and their coleopterus fauna; and the brown Pelican.

Persons presenting contributing papers at the meeting will speak about off-road vehicles, marine biology, botany, animal behavior, biology of vertebrates, ichthyology, mammalogy, folk-lore and mythology, cell biology engineering theory, social sciences, microbiology, earth sciences and animal physiology.

Registration of the SCAS meeting will be at the east entrance of Cal Poly's University Union Friday, 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. and 7 until 8 p.m., and Saturday, 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. The registration fee is $5 professional, $4 student.

For more information and preregistration, those interested may telephone Peter Castro, biological sciences department, 598-4851.

"Booze and You" will be the subject of a free public symposium at the CLAREMONT COLLEGES Friday and Saturday.

Beginning with a film on Friday evening, the two-day program will include guest speakers, panel discussions, workshops for small group participation, and exhibits.

The film, "The Days of Wine and Roses" will be shown in Bauer Lecture Hall, Claremont Men's College at 8 p.m. Friday. It will be followed by a discussion led by Peter Nardi, assistant professor of sociology at Pitzer College.

On Saturday, the program begins at 12:30 p.m. with a display of literature and exhibits on the pleasures and problems of alcohol in Hixon Court, Galileo Hall, Harvey Mudd College.

At 1 p.m. in Galileo Hall, "Plays for Living," an acting ensemble from Los Angeles, will perform a short play, "Lady on the Rocks," dealing with the impact of alcohol on a working woman and her family. Also in Galileo Hall, and starting at 2 p.m., there will be a continuous showing of a videotape on alcohol use by Claremont College students.

Workshops will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. in classrooms in Thomas Garrett Hall on the Harvey Mudd College campus.

Beginning at 2 p.m., Claremont College faculty members will be involved in a panel discussion of their research on alcohol.

Following the panel discussion, there will be an open meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous where speakers will share their experiences as recovered alcoholics.

Workshop 3 involves personnel from the Firehouse Free Clinic in Montclair, in an exploration of personal values as they relate to drinking habits.

At 3:30 p.m., there will be meetings of Alanon, the program for spouses of alcoholics and Alateen the program for children of alcoholics, held simultaneously.

For more information, persons may call 626-8511, ext. 2239.

Artist and critic Allan Sekula will lecture at POMONA COLLEGE on Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Rembrandt Lecture Hall.

Sekula is a photographer, a photographic critic for Artforum and other publications, and a teacher at UC San Diego. His lecture, entitled "On Photographic Meaning," is free to the public.

Souvenir signature

ATLANTA (AP) — Drivers licenses issued in Georgia between 1971 and 1974 probably won't have to be turned in to the state, as is the usual procedure.

The state Senate passed a bill Thursday to allow motorists to keep the licenses, bearing the signature of former Gov. Jimmy Carter, as souvenirs.

Perez pleads guilty to killing of grocer

Seventeen-year-old Miguel Angel Perez has pleaded guilty to first-degree murder in the slaying of Pomona grocer Howard R. Reese, 65, on July 26.

Perez, who previously was ruled unfit for consideration as a juvenile, entered the plea before Pomona Superior Court Judge Sam Cianchetti. Cianchetti scheduled the teen-ager's probation hearing and sentencing for May 19. He is being held in Juvenile Hall, Los Angeles.

Perez followed the example of another youth, a 15-year-old, who pleaded guilty for his part in the killing last September and was committed to the custody of the California Youth Authority. His case was handled in Juvenile Court.

Reese, who lived in Anaheim, was assistant manager of the Lucky Star Market at 1600 W. Mission Blvd. Police charged that the youths robbed him inside the store that night, drove him to a remote area of southwestern Pomona and shot him in the head so he could not identify them.

THE GOLDEN PERIOD FOR WHIPLASH INJURIES

Dr. Harold Fisher of the Ontario Chiropractic Offices issued a strong appeal to accident victims to make them aware of the importance of immediate modern chiropractic examination for whiplash injuries.

Dr. H.L. Fisher D.C.

In a statement Dr. Fisher noted that the first three weeks after a whiplash injury could be called the "golden period of treatment."

"If individuals would only realize the need for immediate examination and treatment following an accident," says Dr. Fisher. "In the three weeks period following an accident, proper care and treatment of a whiplash injury can often save a person a lifetime of pain and discomfort."

"You must remember," says Dr. Fisher, "that a whiplash injury doesn't always manifest itself until 48 hours or more after an accident. Often a victim is 'stunned' right after an accident and doesn't note any of the whiplash effects. However, after a night's sleep, or even longer, he will usually experience a stiffness or soreness in the neck. This could be considered a positive tip-off of a whiplash injury.

"Of course," says Dr. Fisher, "the whiplash symptoms can be present right away." The most prevalent symptoms are the stiffness and tenderness in the neck, and headaches. There can also be nausea, blackouts, dizziness and visual disturbances. "And," he notes, "in better than 50 per cent of the cases there is low back pain."

What is whiplash and what is it's cause?

"Technically speaking," says Dr. Fisher, "a whiplash neck injury is the involuntary thrust of the head and neck in any direction, and the resulting elastic recoil of the head and neck in the opposite direction. with injury to the surrounding and supporting tissues."

The common causes are auto collision, a sudden jerk of one or both arms, a violent blow in the head or chin, a reflex jerking of the head due to fright or sudden noise, or any kind of a fall that causes forceful movement of the head and neck.

"Incidentally," Dr. Fisher points out, "the research council of the U.S. Air Force has demonstrated that the normal neck can withstand a forward snapping fifty times the force of gravity before producing a major injury, but only a backward snapping of five times the force of gravity can be tolerated."

It also should be noted that the elasticity of the neck structures decreases with advancing age. "In general," says Dr. Fisher, "the older the victim, the more likelihood of injury and disability through whiplash."

The complications of whiplash injuries are many and varied. Strains, sprains, fractures, nerve injuries, muscle spasms, ruptured disc, nerve root compression, brain and spinal cord injury that stretches into a joint usually threatens the joints with traumatic arthritis," says Dr. Fisher.

"All too frequently an old whiplash injury comes back to haunt a person if he has not received proper care and treatment following the injury," says Dr. Fisher. "When we say there is a 'golden period' after a whiplash, we mean just that. It's the one and only 'golden opportunity' for proper care, treatment, and correction."

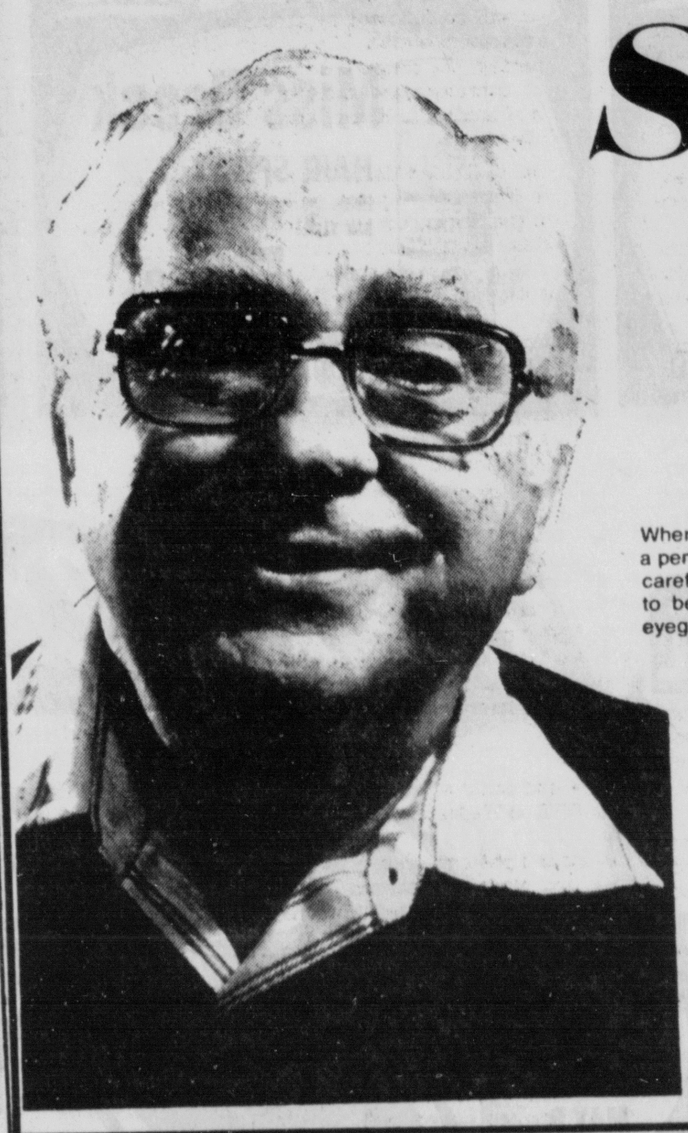

With regard to treatment of injuries, it should be remembered that more than 700 leading insurance companies recognize chiropractic care as practiced at the Ontario Chiropractic Offices. This includes automobile liability, medical pay and on-the-job injuries covered by workmen's compensation.

When should you investigate the possibility of a whiplash?

After any accident, or any time you experience a soreness or stiffness in the neck, you should consult the Ontario Chirpractic Offices. The Doctors are specialists in structural and spinal disorders and will advise you frankly and sincerely. Should you require additional medical care, they will tell you and cooperate fully with other physicians on your case.

Young man sentenced up to 25 years for beating woman

NEW YORK (AP) — As a score of elderly Bronx residents watched, Ronald Timmons, 19, was sentenced Monday to up to 25 years in prison for savagely beating an 82-year-old woman for the $2 in her purse.

Timmons, no stranger to courtrooms, was denounced as a predator and sadist by prosecutor Albert Annunziata, who displayed a 14-inch kitchen knife he said Timmons held to the throat of Adelaide Flemming during the assault last Oct. 26.

"He is a predator in the dirtiest sense of the word — in preying on the helpless," Annunziata told Bronx Criminal Court Judge Joseph Sullivan. "He is a sadist in the true sense of the word."

During the attack, Mrs. Fleming cried out for water but Timmons only "stuck his hand down her throat, knocking her dentures from her mouth," Annunziata said.

In sentencing him to the maximum 8½-to-25 years in prison, Sullivan called Timmons a "microcosm of all that is wrong with the criminal justice system."

He noted Timmons' long record as a youthful offender who was rejected by his mother and put out on the streets at age 10 to fend for himself.

He supported himself as "a teenage predator stalking out elderly victims ... and he must be punished and taught that crime doesn't pay and he has to pay his dues," the judge said.

Timmons pleaded guilty during jury selection last March 17 to assaulting and robbing Mrs. Fleming. An accomplice, Zachary Shannon, 20, pleaded guilty later to burglary. He will be sentenced May 24.

Police, called by neighbors of Mrs. Fleming, caught Timmons and Shannon in the apartment.

David Harris, 80, one of the elderly observers present during each of Timmons' court appearances, said Monday, "we are satisfied with the sentence. Our presence helped the court realize there is a victim in the case." Mrs. Fleming was not present.

Timmons had jumped $500 bail after his arrest, but was seized last November by FBI agents in Baltimore. His lawyer, Martin Gotkin, said Timmons' arrest drew widespread publicity during a rash of attacks on the elderly and he had "fled out of sheer terror of his life."

Timmons had been accused of taking part in the mugging murder of a 92-year-old man in 1974, but the case was dismissed without trial for lack of evidence. Gotkin said Timmons "was wrongfully branded as a killer."

Shoe production

Production of men's shoes reached its peak in 1942, when 143 million pairs were manufactured. The output of women's shoes peaked in 1959, when shoemakers produced 292 million pairs for them, says the Bureau of the Census.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1802, Washington, D.C. was incorporated as a city.

On this date:

In 1494, Christopher Columbus discovered the island of Jamaica.

In 1859, France declared war on Austria.

In 1923, Navy Lt. Oakley Kelly and John MacReady made the first transcontinental air flight, landing at Coronado Beach, Calif.

In 1944, synthetic quinine was produced in a laboratory at Harvard University.

In 1970, American bombers wiped out part of a rubber-producing center in Cambodia after U.S. helicopters had been fired on.

In 1975, President Ford commissioned the world's largest warship, the nuclear aircraft carrier "Nimitz," at Norfolk, Va.

Ten years ago: South Korean President Chung Hee Park was re-elected in the most orderly election since South Korea gained independence from Japan in 1945.

Five years ago: Some 150,000 persons fled from the South Vietnamese city of Hue as Communist military forces pushed toward the outskirts.

One year ago: The Pulitzer prize for fiction was awarded to Saul Bellow for his novel, "Humboldt's Gift."

Today's birthdays: Former Israeli Premier Gold Meir is 79 years old. Former boxing champion Sugar Ray Robinson is 57.

Thought for today: Fortune is not on the side of the fainthearted. Sophocles, Greek dramatist, about 496-406 BC.

State Jaycee president set

CULVER CITY (AP) — A 31 year-old executive from Pacific Palisades has been elected president of the California Jaycees.

Michael L. Deveso, a past president of the Santa Monica Jaycees, was elected Saturday at a weekend convention of the international service club attended by an estimated 3,000 statewide members.

Molasses history set

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Molasses, the most nutritious sweetening agent, can be traced back 8,000 years, to the original cultivation of sugar cane in New Guinea. Popular in the West by 1600, it is now being rediscovered by American consumers, according to RJR Foods.

The increase in molasses consumption is attributed to the growing number of Americans cooking their own bread, cookies and sauces from scratch. Molasses production in the last quarter of 1976 was 100,000 pounds greater than during the comparable period in 1975.

FOOTNOTES

Composite tables include trades from nine markets identified by last price indicators for markets other than NYSE as: a-AMEX (NYSE list only); b-Boston; c-Cincinnati; g-NASD; u-Midwest; k-instinet; n-NYSE (Amex list only); p-Pacific; x-Philadelphia. Instinet is block trading system used by institutions.

All sales in full.

DIVIDENDS: Are annual unless otherwise identified; (a) plus extra; (b) paid so far this year, no regular rate; (c) payment on accummulated dividends; (d) paid last year; (e) cash plus stock paid in 1976; (f) cash plus stock paid in 1977; (g) annual rate plus stock dividend; (h) paid this year (latest dividend omitted); (j) per cent in stock paid in 1976; (k) per cent in stock paid in 1977; (q) in bankruptcy-receivership or reorganization; (s) capital distribution; (x) ex-dividend; (wi) when issued; (wt) warrants.

P-E ratio: The price of a stock as a multiple of per-share earnings derived by dividing the latest 12-month earnings figure into last sale price.

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Aided by favorable economic reports, the stock market headed higher Tuesday in fairly active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

Analysts said the market was being helped by a strong surge in March's leading economic indicators. The indicators data was supplemented by reports that March factory orders rose 5.2 per cent, durable goods orders 8 per cent, nondefense durable goods orders 2.9 per cent, shipments 5 per cent and construction spending 5.6 per cent.

Investors have shrugged off an apparent credit tightening by the Federal Reserve Board last week. Fed Chairman Arthur F. Burns told the Senate Banking Committee the board's Open Market Committee has voted to reduce the growth targets for broad measurements of the nation's money supply.

Against that background, the Dow Jones industrial average, which gained 4.32 points Monday, was ahead 3.48 points to 934.70 shortly before noon EDT.

Advances led declines, 793 to 371, among the 1,666 issues crossing the tape. The 502 unchanged issues reflected some investor uncertainty.

Volume at the two-hour mark amounted to about 9,600,000 shares, up from the 7,110,000 traded during the same period Monday.

Texaco was the most active NYSE-listed issue, up ⅛ following two block trades of 100,000 shares each at 26¾. Babcock & Wilcox followed, up ⅞. International Telephone & Telegraph was third, up ⅛.

Prices were higher in active trading of American Stock Exchange issues. Houston Oil & Minerals was the most active issue, up ¼. Total Petroleum followed, up ¼. Wynn's International was third, up ⅜.

Bubble Yum gum, spider eggs don't mix

NEW YORK (AP) — No one knows who started all that unpleasant talk about spider eggs and Bubble Yum gum.

The rumor that the gum contained spider eggs had schoolyards buzzing for a while in February and March, especially in the New York metropolitan area. But various forms of Bubble Yum rumors reportedly popped up as far away as Los Angeles.

Executives at Life Savers Inc., who take their bubble gum business seriously, weren't at all pleased about the scary stories.

They hired a group of private detectives in Florida "who specialize in this kind of thing" to track down the rumor, says Life Savers spokesman Norman R. Ritter. But the gumshoes didn't learn much.

"The investigation didn't yield the source of the rumor. We didn't expect that it would but we felt we should make an effort," he said.

Despite the detectives' failure, Ritter says all the nasty business is past.

"The believability of the rumor has almost disappeared," he said, basing the judgment on the basis of company market studies and a public opinion survey.

Life Savers takes some credit for shooting the stories down.

The company wrote to parent-teacher associations and school principals in an effort to squelch the rumors after market studies indicated it was affecting retail sales. It also placed advertisements in 30 newspapers in New York, northern New Jersey and southern Connecticut.

"Someone is telling your kids very, very bad lies about a very good gum," the ads declared.

The company's followup survey indicated about 30 per cent of the adults who read the ads also took the time to read them to their children, said Ritter.

Ritter declined to say how many people were surveyed by the company or discuss specifics of other marketing research.

But "we're satisfied that we nipped the problem in the bud and it's behind us now," he said.

Although retailers reported sales declines, company officials said the spider egg story never did affect its production or sales.

Company officials don't want to say how much Bubble Yum they make but they claim that the sweet, rubbery gum, which was marketed nationally about a year ago, is now the biggest selling bubble gum in the country.

That apparently is no small stuff. Ritter says trade estimates put retail sales of all brands of bubble gum at $200 million a year and all gum sales at $800 million.

Supermarket news familiar, but unpleasant

By The Associated Press

Supermarket shoppers found familiar, but unpleasant news at the grocery store last month. An Associated Press market-basket survey shows prices went up again during April, rising slightly more than they did during the previous month.

The AP drew up a random list of commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked prices at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973, and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

Among the highlights of the latest survey:

—The marketbasket bill increased during April at the checklist store in eight cities and decreased in five. The average rise was 3 per cent and the average drop was 1.1 per cent, for an overall increase of 1.4 per cent.

The boost compared with an average increase of 1 per cent during March, when the marketbasket total also rose at the checklist store in eight cities and decreased in five.

—The price of a pound of chopped chuck went up at the checklist store in six cities and declined in only two. The American National Cattlemen's Association has warned that beef prices will rise during the late spring and summer because ranchers, complaining that they were losing money last year, cut back the size of their herds.

—Comparing prices at the end of April with those at the start of the year, the AP found the market-basket bill for the food and nonfood items increased at the checklist store in every city, up an average of just under 6 per cent. Current marketbasket totals are an average of 15 per cent higher than they were 12 months earlier.

The Department of Agriculture said Friday that prices paid to farmers rose 1.5 per cent in the period from March 15 to April 15, the fifth straight monthly increase.

The department also said that food prices are rising faster than expected and might increase 4 to 6 per cent during 1977. Earlier, the USDA had predicted a 4 to 5 per cent boost.

—The rising price of coffee is the major reason for most of the increase. Coffee prices in many areas have almost doubled in the past year alone. By the beginning of May, prices topped the $3-a-pound level and there was little relief in sight since wholesale prices are nearing $5 a pound.

During April, the price of a pound of coffee went up at the checklist store in 10 of the cities surveyed. Increases ranged from 6 per cent in Philadelphia to 33 per cent in Los Angeles. The price remained unchanged in two cities and the requested size and brand of coffee was unavailable at the checklist store in the 13th city.

—Eggs and pork chops presented shoppers with an opportunity to bargain hunt. The price of a dozen eggs declined at the checklist store in 11 cities, continuing a recent trend, and pork chops went down at the checklist store in eight cities.

A look at the over-all number of items in the AP survey showed more increases and decreases during April than during March. Here are the percentages of increases and decreases:

	Mar.	Apr.
Up	20.0	23.6
Down	13.8	17.4
Unchanged	62.1	53.9
Unavailable	4.1	5.1

The day of the week when the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes were used when available. If the requested size and brand was not available on March 1, 1973, a comparable substitute was selected. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the over-all total.

The AP did not attempt to compare actual prices from city to city — to say, for example, that cookies cost more in one area than another. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease — saying a particular item went up 10 per cent in one city and 6 per cent in another.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture marketbasket issued each month is based on a complex set of statistics. It includes 65 retail items of U.S. farm-produced foods in amounts that theoretically could supply a household of 3.2 persons for one year. The department, which draws on information from 1,500 supermarkets in compiling its report, says the figures do not correspond to actual family food spending and are used mainly to illustrate changes in costs.

Moral message set aside

Carter energy reaction

NEW YORK (AP) — It's amazing, the immediate impact of President Carter's energy message, his challenge to the nation to consider the energy shortage the moral equivalent of war.

The moral of the message isn't likely to have been lost. But it may, it seems, have been set aside for consideration at a later date.

Automotive manufacturers say they plan to boost output in May, the railroads exclaim the dawn of a new day, drivers of big cars say they'll keep them and pay the penalty.

On Wall Street, research houses get to work searching out stocks that might conceivably benefit, or that might give that appearance, which is just as good for the purpose of peddling shares.

Economists quickly advise their clients that the energy program isn't likely to have a significant effect until next year; they issue assurances that the outlook is good for the rest of the year.

Are long-delayed decisions being delayed again?

An analysis of the outcome of Carter's proposals by one prominent research firm here includes this typical comment:

"With congressional elections looming, no 'right-thinking' legisaltor will lightly risk offending the drivers of the 100 million cars on the road today."

Under the Carter plan, coal is supposed to be the nation's salvation. How does the research firm analyze the outlook for coal?

"A toss-up. Powerful vested interests pitted against each other in a free-for-all — environmentalists, utilities, mining industry, state governments. Meaningful progress will not come soon, despite the leading role in which coal has been cast."

It summarizes: "In any event, the legislative process will fragment the program into many smaller components, whose passage through the mills could take years."

The notion that the country delayed before and so it will argue and procrasintinate again isn't isolated thinking.

The entire energy consideration is remarkably absent or markedly played down in the projections of many stock market and other analysts.

All analysts hereabout concede that the new energy initiatives will eventually have their impact.

Merit Solving Smoker Dilemma.

'Enriched Flavor'™ breakthrough ends search for "low tar, good taste" cigarette.

For years, smokers had to choose between real tobacco flavor or low tar.

Until MERIT.

Until a breakthrough in tobacco science resulted in a way to boost natural tobacco flavor without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

The result was 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

MERIT and MERIT 100's were packed with this special tobacco. And taste-tested against a number of higher tar cigarettes.

The results proved conclusively that 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco does boost taste without the usual increase in tar.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of both MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.

Cigarettes having up to 60% more tar!

Only one cigarette has 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. And you can taste it.

Two-week ban in tri-community area sought

Plea for building permit halt to be heard

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

City officials from Ontario, Upland and Montclair will appear before a special meeting of the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors Wednesday to ask that no new building permits be issued in Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda for at least two weeks.

Officials are fearful that allowing future building activity in the tri-community area to go unchecked may quickly use up any available sewage plant capacity in the West End.

City and county representatives have been working behind the scenes in recent weeks in an effort to reach agreement on an allocation formula for any remaining sewage treatment capability at Chino Basin Municipal Water District's regional plant No. 1.

That plant was recently found in violation of state water quality standards and ordered to stop "forthwith" any future violations.

Supervisors will meet at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the board chambers to consider the adoption of an urgency ordinance that would temporarily stop the issuance of building permits in the tri-community area. Permits would be allowed if builders had certification from the CBMWD that sewage facilities were available.

Upland and Montclair city councils adopted similar building permit bans Monday as a show of good faith with the county and to each other that they are willing to work for an allocation formula for the remaining capacity.

Ontario City Council will consider a temporary building permit ban tonight.

All the involved agencies indicated such a permit ban may be necessary as a temporary measure until agreement can be reached on who is going to get what in the way of future building.

Thus far, tentative agreement between Ontario, Upland and Montclair has been reached on an allocation formula. That very tentative agreement calls for Ontario to get 49 per cent of remaining sewage capacity at regional plant No. 1.

Upland would get 20 per cent of remaining capacity, Montclair 12 per cent and the unincorporated areas 19 per cent.

The only agency apparently unable to agree to such a formula is the county — and for good reason.

Of the more than 15,000 lots approved for future building in the West End, almost two-thirds of those are located in Alta Loma, Etiwanda and Cucamonga, unincorporated county areas.

With only 19 per cent of the available sewage capacity as part of their allocation, it is doubtful builders in the tri-community area with already approved tentative tracts would be allowed to build all of their planned homes.

West End officials are hoping the temporary ban on new building permits will give them enough time to work out an allocation formula agreeable to all parties.

If such an agreement is not reached it is conceivable builders, West End cities, the county and the CBMWD could be embroiled in controversy for years in trying to find an equitable solution to the crisis.

Upland extends its building ban for two more weeks

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Upland City Council Monday virtually stopped residential development in the city by continuing its ban on issuing building permits for another two weeks.

This new ordinance was adopted a week ago as a oneweek emergency measure and was re-adopted Monday for two weeks, until May 17. The action was taken by the council in response to a hearing recently in which water quality officials warned the Chino Basin Municipal Water District that it was in violation of state water standards at the plant which serves Upland.

The ordinance, which stops the issuance of building permits and final tract map recording, is in addition to a previous moratorium adopted by the city on Feb. 7 which curtailed building permits.

At the request of Councilman John McCarthy, commercial, industrial and single-home construction were exempt from the new ordinance.

"The money market is changing and loan commitments may increase as much as one-half per cent in two weeks," Doug Hone, developer of Mark III Homes told the council members. "This action by the council is starting to hurt the developers — and badly."

Councilman William Bottin expressed disappointment that other cities had not issued similar moratoriums but added, "We have to determine what is best for our city and take the action we see as necessary."

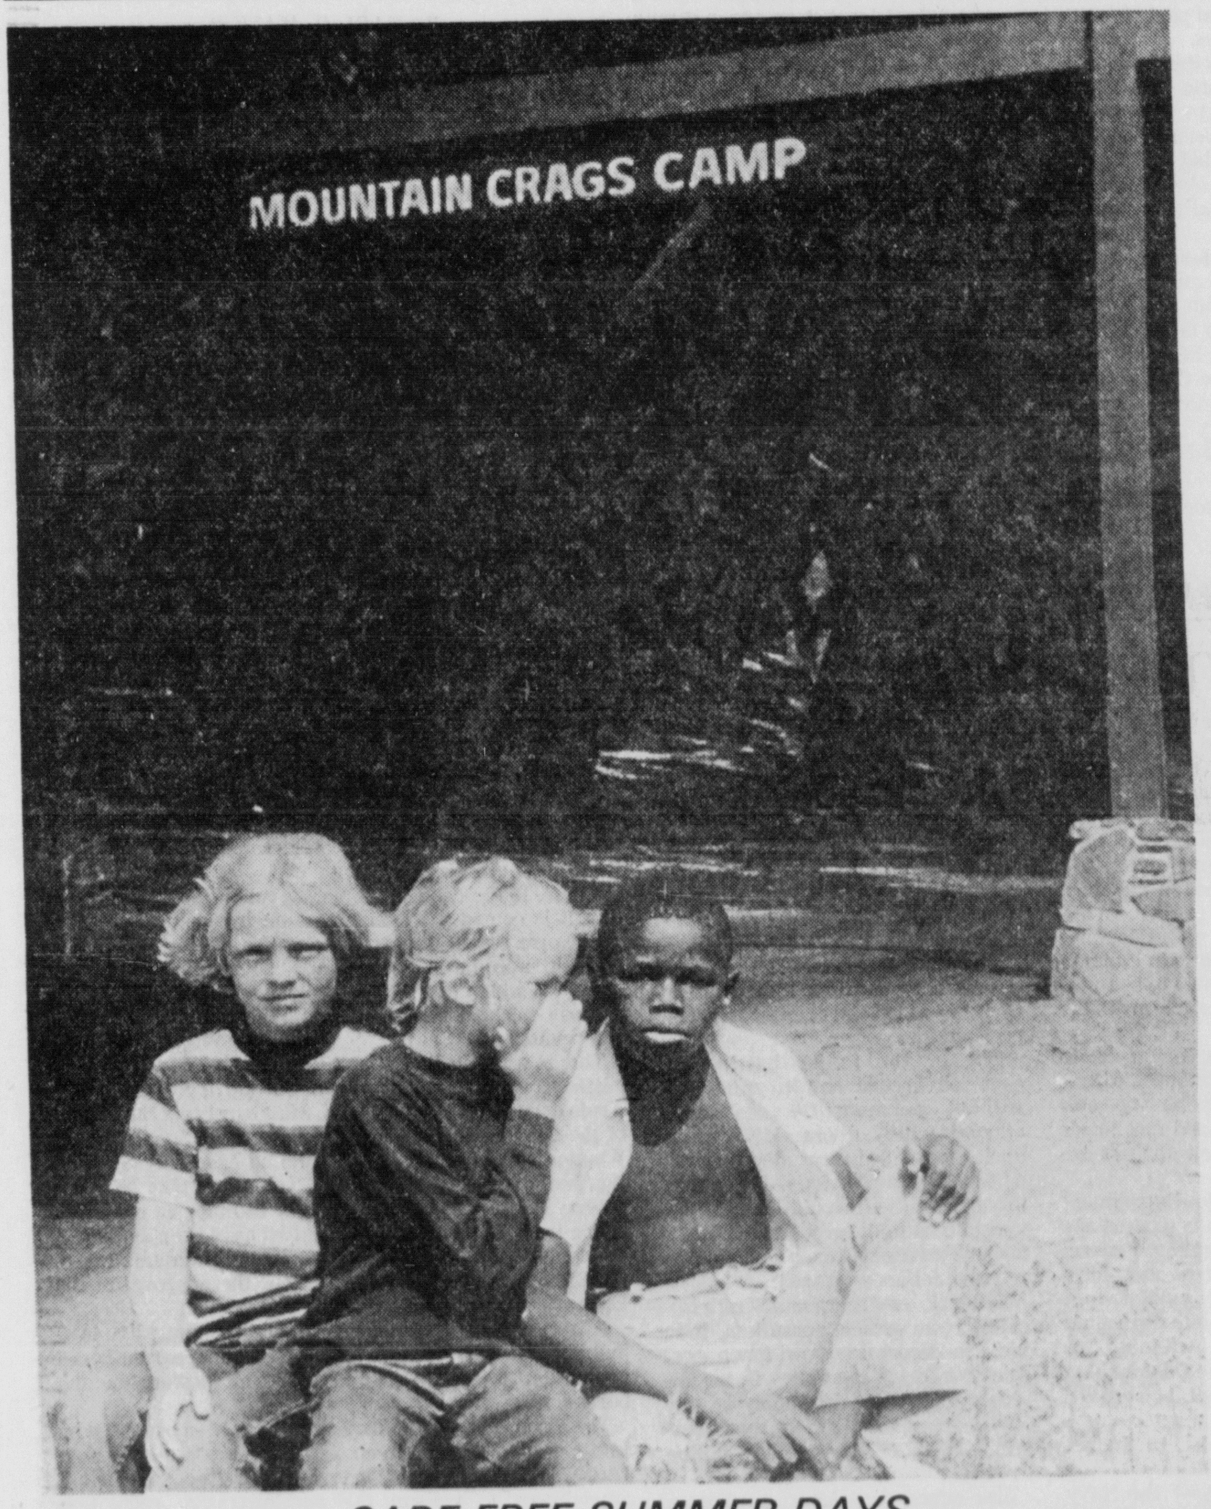

"We must do something drastic to make the San Bernardino County officials stop issuing permits," said Council member Ina Petokas.

Because of the new ordinance, three requests by developers for relief from the provisions of the February moratorium were held over to the May 16 council meeting.

In a related matter affecting the sewage system, the council adopted an urgency ordinance which regulates the use of those water softeners that use salt in the conditioning of the water because of a high percentage of brine in the discharge.

The council also set May 16 for a hearing which would prohibit night use of a gun club on 20th Street east of Euclid Avenue.

A petition from residents in the area who object to the noise was accepted by the council.

CARE-FREE SUMMER DAYS

New friendships are formed when children spend a week at a summer camp. These youngsters were photographed at Mountain Crags Camp in the Malibu Mountains, operated by the Salvation Army Corps. The Donrey Public Foundation Inc. now is accepting donations to send children to two Salvation Army Corps camps this summer.

Camp can give area children active summer to remember

For many children, summer vacation means packing up with the family and going on a trip, doing different things, seeing different sites and learning new things.

But for some, it means boredom and idleness and nothing to do.

These are the youngsters the Donrey Public Foundation Inc. is attempting to reach this summer with its campership program.

These are the youngsters who desperately need a break, a summer vacation, a chance to go someplace, do, see and learn new things.

A donation of $65 will send one child to summer camp for a week. Checks may be mailed to the foundation in care of P. O. Box 2708, Pomona 91766.

Capt. Daniel Birks of the Pomona Salvation Army Corps is supervising the selection of children to receive the campership.

Those selected will spend a week at either Camp Mountain Crags or Camp Gilmore, two Salvation Army Corps camps in the Malibu Mountains.

Those who make donations will be providing healthy character building experiences for the children. The Progress Bulletin will publish the names of those who make contributions unless they ask to remain anonymous.

All money donated will be used for campership. There are no administrative costs to this program.

No child can determine the family into which he will be born. He has no control over who his parents will be, their income, or his nationality, race or physical characteristics.

Yet, each child has the same needs and high on the list of these needs is healthy recreational experience.

Camping experiences give growing children the opportunity to put theories they have been taught into practice. Helping and sharing and caring become realities when children are grouped together.

Pomona has many children from homes where the parents' income is barely at the subsistence level. Feeding the children in the family is a struggle. For them to pay for a camping experience would be impossible. Care enough to help?

Claremont park sign on agenda

The proposed city park sign which drew a close 3-2 vote of approval from the Claremont City Council two weeks ago will be back on the council agenda at the May 10 meeting.

Councilwoman Eleanor Cohen, who had voted against the sign because she thinks it is too negative, brought up the subject of the sign at a recent meeting.

"Is there interest in reviewing the park sign?" she inquired.

Mayor Bertye Smith who had voted in favor of the sign said that she would like to see it scaled down a bit, and the council decided to take another look at it.

The proposed sign is topped by the city seal and the label "Claremont Ordinance" and reads, "No alcoholic beverages; No motor driven vehicles; No golfing; No horses; and no dogs in city parks."

It also has X's going through appropriate figures of those items forbidden.

Confusion on measles inoculations

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

Confusion continued Monday over the required exclusion from the public schools of students who had not verified their measles inoculations.

Only Claremont of the four local school districts in Los Angeles County reported that it had excluded students on Monday, the deadline for measles inoculation verification established by the county health department.

Officials in Pomona, Bonita and Walnut Valley said they would extend the time period on exclusion until later this week or early next week. Whether or not this failure to comply with the county order will result in any punitive or legal action by the county remains to be seen.

Meanwhile, the Pomona Health Center was crowded Monday as an additional 600 individuals received measles inoculations. Approximately 400 to 500 vaccinations were given at the center on Saturday. The immunization program will continue for the rest of the week from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. through Friday at 750 S. Park Ave.

In Claremont on Monday, only about 50 students were still in need of inoculations, said district officials, and most of those were expected to be completed by today.

In Pomona, Ken Cooper, director of pupil personnel services, said the district would extend the deadline until Friday. Next Monday, said Cooper, students without immunization would definitely be excluded from school.

Cooper said the district sent out some 1,500 letters Monday to parents of students still in need of inoculations.

He also discussed another problem being considered by school administrators — other inoculations beyond the measles shots. Cooper said the district is now formulating plans to exclude next fall all children who have not received a complete set of immunizations against the standard childhood diseases.

"This will really create a bigger problem for the mid-year transfer student," said Cooper. "They may come in from an area where the inoculations are not stressed and we'll have to tell the parents their children can't be enrolled until the immunization records are complete."

In Bonita, Howard Wigell, assistant superintendent, said the district would not exclude students until they have had an opportunity to attend clinics which the district will operate today through Thursday.

In Walnut Valley, Lang Dana, director of pupil personnel, said his estimates showed that the district still had about 410 students requiring the immunization verification; 390 of those at the high school.

Montclair also declares 2-week building halt

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

Montclair City Council followed suit with the City of Upland Monday night by declaring a two-week halt to the issuance of building permits and the acceptance of applications for tentative residential tracts.

Mayor Harold Hayes shunned the use of the term "moratorium," saying that it has a negative connotation and does not really address the real issue of uncontrolled growth in the West End.

Hayes dubbed the temporary halt as a "growth allocation program," with an acronym of GAP.

"It's necessary to work out an allocation formula for the West End. It's really not a moratorium or ban on building. It's a growth allocation program, GAP. This is what we're attempting to do — fill in the gap between the building development and the non-reclaimable (waste) system facilities," Hayes said.

The ordinance was considered an emergency nature and received the required 4/5ths vote of the council. Councilman Paul Jones, a Realtor, was absent.

The Montclair and Upland actions are part of an agreement which also includes the City of Ontario in which these entities are attempting to gain a fair share of development and sewer connection into the Chino Basin Municipal Water District. The trio of municipalities fear that if growth continues uncontrolled in the tri-communities of Etiwanda, Cucamonga and Alta Loma, the sewage capacity of CBMWD will be met before the incorporated cities can develop vacant parcels in their areas.

City Administrator Lauren Wasserman explained the ordinance would forbid the issuance of any residential building permits for developments of four or more through May 17 unless the "city receives a letter from CBMWD certifying the agency's ability to treat sewage generated from the proposed development."

The ordinance also says "the city would accept no applications for tentative tract development for a two-week period ending May 17."

Commercial and industrial developments are excluded from the ordinance.

Wasserman said that the primary purpose of the ordinance is to stimulate cooperation from the building industry with the cities and San Bernardino County supervisors in seeking solutions for the growth management problems.

The West End faced a state-imposed moratorium on sewer hookups by the California Water Quality Control Board, Santa Ana Region two weeks ago. However, the expected cease and desist order did not materialize in a lengthy public hearing; and the board merely said the area must meet water quality standards shortly.

"With the removal of the ban on sewer hookups, the building industry basically felt construction would proceed as it had in the past," Wasserman said. "Therefore, there is little incentive remaining for the Building Industry Association to cooperate in determining an acceptable growth management formula for the area."

West End city officials felt the emergency ordinance "was the most effective way of gaining the cooperation of the building industry representatives."

The City of Ontario is expected to consider the matter at its 7 p.m. meeting today.

This crisis gets slow response

Someone has remarked that if Americans had reacted to Pearl Harbor the way they have to the energy problem, we would all be speaking Japanese today.

The analogy is a vivid one, but not really very helpful. The attack on Pearl Harbor was a direct and unmistakable challenge to the nation's security. There was no question about how to respond to it. Things are quite a bit less certain when it comes to the energy crisis.

War was declared on Japan the day after Pearl Harbor and young men flocked to join the armed services. It will take weeks and months for Congress to debate the various aspects of President Carter's energy program. In the meantime, where does the average citizen go to enlist?

We don't even know who the enemy is today. Is it ourselves, and our profligate waste of energy and other resources, or are the Arabs and the oil companies the culprits? Will a little conservation here and there be enough to solve the problem, or must we gird ourselves to accept the fact that our constantly improving standard of living is a thing of the past—that we face a permanent situation of scarce and high-cost energy with no "VJ Day" in sight?

On the one hand, a study by the CIA warns that the world's reserves of petroleum are actually far less than previously estimated. Then along comes another report by geologists and other specialists at a United Nations conference who say that the world probably has enough gas and oil to last another hundred years.

Imagine the confusion if, on Dec. 7, 1941, Americans had heard conflicting reports that maybe there was and maybe there wasn't some kind of attack on Hawaii, and had seen the Congress and the President and all the experts disagreeing about the seriousness of the situation and what should be done about it.

Already, nearly every proposal outlined by President Carter has encountered a host of ifs, ands and buts. Such a seemingly simple matter as insulating houses becomes immensely complicated when we get down to implementing it.

The President has called for insulating or reinsulating 90 per cent of America's 53 million homes by 1985, but the insulation industry says it is presently producing at peak capacity and doubts that the goal can be reached.

The President has also suggested a tax credit for homeowners of 25 per cent of the first $1,800 and 15 per cent of the next $1,400 they spend on insulation, but costs are rising so fast that by the time the program is enacted the tax credit may not be enough.

If the problem of conserving the energy we have is a difficult and controversial one, the problem of generating new sources of energy is a ball game all to itself.

Both the cost and practicality of widespread use of solar energy have been questioned. An increased use of coal will have serious environmental consequences. As for nuclear energy, the President has ruled out the once-promising fast-breeder reactor process using dangerous plutonium, and a recent court ruling has clouded the future of the entire industry by declaring unconstitutional the law limiting the accident liability of nuclear power companies.

No, this is not Pearl Harbor. But at least the President has, for the first time, confronted the nation with the dimensions of the energy challenge and made a beginning toward a comprehensive, long-term national policy.

All that Americans need is to be shown the way, and they will respond as they have to every other crisis in their history.

Think on these things

Counting the bad times is too often our specialty. The good ones come and go and we forget they were there — but the bad? We keep telling ourselves, "Well, that's one more time — one more thing gone wrong . . ." But do we ever realize that our constant acknowledgement of what's wrong simply keeps it coming?

Whatever gets our attention — gets us. If we're keeping a scorecard so that we can prove to ourselves that the bad outweighs the good — it won't be hard to do. We always tip the scales toward what we believe, good or bad. It's just as easy to count the things going right, but there's just one thing we have to forfeit in such a case — self pity. But then, that was the trouble in the first place.

What people say

Just in jest

Who's afraid of the big bad water shortage? Not I, now that I've read an advertisement which recently appeared in the Far West edition of a nationally distributed weekly newspaper. For in that ad one of this world's true noblemen, a benefactor who has only my welfare at heart, points out that for just a mere pittance he will show me how to overcome any water problems that may have been brought about by the drought.

"DRILL YOUR OWN WATER WELL," the heading on his advertisement read. "You can tap the vast unlimited supply of good clean pure water beneath the surface of your property and have all the water you need for two cents a day."

For only $1 he will send me full particulars. — So phooey on all the threats about water rationing. As soon as I can scrape up an extra buck I'll write for those instructions. If I drill deep enough I may even get sufficient water to not only supply my own needs but also have some to spare for my neighbors. Who knows? Maybe I will even be able to go in competition with the Pomona Water Department.

Parent's sacred trust

Dear Editor:

After reading the letter April 26 from the Zimmermans of Alta Loma, I'd like to make my own comment.

I have had my heart wrapped up in raising a family for the past 24 years — three adopted sons, three adopted daughters and a bonus baby born three years ago.

We were always told that the children might (at the age of 21) be able to learn more of their story if they so chose. Their files may be opened at their request through the Bureau of Vital Statistics in Sacramento. One of our sons chose to do this, and is still on his quest.

A child, no matter how it comes into your life, is a sacred trust. I feel that we who are privileged to be parents must not dwell on the clouds that hover above us, for there are many of them forging a golden link with our children that holds meaningfully through the years. It may bend, break and even sever but in some small corner of their minds they will know we loved them with all our hearts — and part of loving is to let go sometimes.

In case you think this letter comes from some idealistic soul who has never had a problem with children, let me hasten to assure you there have been a myriad of them. As Mother's Day is so close I would like to reverse the usual procedure and say to my children, "Thank you for choosing me. When the clouds hovered, we held hands and hearts until the sun came out again. For you on your own quests of life, I keep a daily prayer in my heart."

Good for good news

Dear Editor:

I have longed to see and hear that goodness has been made news and I found it at last, in the article you published a few days ago, "A county will honor a theological school president." I cut it out, took it with me to show my friends and all have been more than pleased to read this article.

I find many people complaining of the crime, theft, and other depressing front page attractions. I can't understand why this must be so, for it implies you think this sort of news is in demand. I don't agree when there are so many more good people than bad.

Thanks for the good news you published regarding schools and the like, but more in the class with the article about Dr. Gordon Michalson, retiring School of Theology president.

Board does own lawmaking

By EARL G. WATERS

An outstanding example of the folly of permitting the administrative branch of government to exercise the lawmaking functions clearly reserved to the legislature by the constitution can be seen in the current battle over Senate Bill 20.

That bill, authored by Sen. John Stull, would invalidate the controversial "access rule" adopted by the Agricultural Labor Relations Board which allows labor organizers to trespass on farms.

In creating the board the legislature not only never intended to give labor unions such power but definitely rejected the idea when the bill establishing the ALRB was under consideration.

But, in the enactment of the ALRB Act, the legislature included the provision that "the board may make . . . such rules and regulations as may be necessary . . ."

It is that delegation of legislative authority which made possible the ALRB adoption of a law which had been considered and denied in the passage of the act.

The provision is not a new one. Over the years it has become increasingly used as the lawmakers, unwilling to think through and work out all the details of legislation, have found it a convenient device.

Now the realization is dawning on many of the solons that they have handed over far too much power to the administrative branch. For that one little provision which is to be found throughout the codes governing the administration has enabled the non-elected bureaucrats to adopt "rules" which are for all purposes the law without the necessity of the processes which control legislative enactments and without any overview.

As in the case of the ALRB access rule, many of the regulations adopted by the administrative agencies go beyond legislative intent. Worse, some are without any statutory authority and some even are contrary to the statutes. In the case of the access rule it has been argued that it is contrary to state laws on trespass.

Because such administrative rules are often adopted without adequate hearing and because there is no authority which can "veto" such regulations, the present remedy can only be had through a legislative act undoing the regulation.

This is what Stull is attempting and the solons are now getting a good demonstration of how difficult it is to void a rule once it has been adopted. Stull barely got his bill out of the Senate committee and faces a tough Senate battle. Winning there he still must hurdle an Assembly committee and the Assembly itself. Even after that he must secure the governor's signature or attempt an override.

The irony of this is that it could all have been avoided if the legislature simply provided that no administrative regulations may be enacted without the approval of the legislature.

It is in pursuit of that control over administrative lawmaking that numerous members have this year authored legislation to bridle the rule-making powers of the bureaucrats.

The foremost effort in that regard has been prepared by Sen. George Zenovich in cooperation with Assemblymen Willie Brown and Louis Papan. Proposing a constitutional amendment to reform the administrative regulation process, they seek to require legislative ratification of all administrative regulations.

It is a major facet in the awakening by government leaders of the public complaints about too much government as expressed by President Carter and others.

Carter takes camera off Cuba

WASHINGTON — President Carter, in an effort to show Fidel Castro that the United States is serious about resuming full relations, has secretly called off reconnaissance flights over Cuba.

From the earliest days of the Castro regime until September 1974, the United States regularly snapped aerial photographs from U-2 planes flying high over Cuba. From then until this Jan. 11, the sophisticated SR-71 reconnaissance plane was used to gather photographic intelligence about activities on the island.

That was the final flight. Shortly after assuming office, President Carter ordered an end to the SR-71 Cuban forays.

This, of course, is but one of the signs that the official U.S. attitude toward Cuba has begun to soften. Asst. Secretary of State Terence Todman has been in Havana as head of an American delegation negotiating with Cuba over fishing rights in the straits between Cuba and Florida. And the State Department officially blessed a series of basketball games between Cuban and U.S. teams.

However, federal investigators have received disturbing new allegations about Cuba that could quickly chill the recent thaw in the diplomatic climate.

The allegations come from an informant inside Panama, where top government officials have been trafficking in international narcotics for years. The shadowy underworld informant charges that Latin American narcotics flowing into the United States are actually transshipped through Cuba.

Congressional investigators, we previously reported, have established that the brother of Panamanian dictator Omar Torrijos, Moises, has been funneling heroin into the United States. But the State Department, fearful of upsetting the delicate negotiations over the Panama Canal, has looked the other way.

The informant also maintains that an automobile dealership in Panama has been used as a front to sell narcotics to American soldiers in the Canal Zone.

Federal investigators are trying to determine if the informant is entirely credible. They say he appeared cool and professional and that 90 per cent of his information appears accurate.

Footnote: The State Department vehemently denies it has ignored any evidence of drug smuggling. Federal narcotic officials told us they have found absolutely no evidence of drugs being smuggled into the United States through Cuba. Attempts are being made to have the Panamanian informant, who must remain anonymous for his own safety, repeat his allegations in secret testimony on Capitol Hill.

NAVY NEIGHBORS — The Navy has asked Vice President Walter Mondale to rein in his daughter and her horse. The vice presidential manor is located on six acres of Washington's Naval Observatory Grounds, adjacent to another 24 acres used by the Navy.

The vice president's 17-year-old daughter, Eleanor Jane, was so anxious to ride her horse "Junior" to a nearby birdle path that she trespassed on Navy territory.

An employee spotted her near the Navy's administration building and turned in a report. After being briefed on the Navy regulations, Mondale promised "it won't happen again."

Navy officials insist they are quite happy with their vice presidential neighbor. They made no comment about the horse.

STRIP MINING SNAG — Proposed strip-mining legislation has been jeopardized by the alteration of a crucial report on coal production.

One of the major battles has centered around how to mine coal without permanently destroying alluvial valley floors. While these giant, loose sediment deposits are agriculturally productive, strip mining around them would leave untold tons of coal in the ground. This could hinder President Carter's plan for increased reliance on coal.

Federal environmental officials called in an outside consultant, ICF, Inc., to determine how much coal would be lost if the valley floors are preserved. ICF's first analysis, say our sources, confirmed many experts' fears of massive production cutbacks.

Just seven days later, howver, a second ICF report appeared, contending that only half as much coal would be lost. Other vital conclusions of the previous study had been watered down.

There was some grumbling that the changes had been penciled in by overzealous environmentalists, who were fearful that a negative report would damage the prospects for passage of strip-mining legislation.

Government officials deny that the report was doctored.

Women liberated from what?

Even the Queen of England was an auto mechanic — when such wartime service was essential.

In the United States "Rosie the Riveter" took the place of some drafted man — when she had to.

But most women — MOST women — when that crisis was passed preferred other "less masculine" employment.

Presently our vocational high schools are required to make available to girls courses in plumbing and auto mechanics and electrical repair — but few are enrolling.

A Pennsylvania State University study produces the recommendation that high school administrators should "more actively encourage" girls to take such courses.

Now, wait a minute.

This sounds as though in the name of "equal rights," we are trying to force females into untraditional and uncomfortable occupations.

Is that what it means to be "liberated"?

Despite Justice Department pressure only 2.1 per cent of our nation's local police officers are policewomen.

Yet there have been only 19 civil rights court cases in the past five years wherein women sought to force open that door.

For many women, "knowing they can" have such jobs is enough; it is highly unlikely that there will ever be a 50-50 allocation of such jobs to both sexes any more than there will be a 50-50 allocation of jobs as department store demonstrators of cosmetics.

But now our federal government is seeking to coerce more women into more vocations whether they like it or not.

The National Advisory Council on Women's Educational Programs NACWEP) is urging HEW to "undertake a vigorous campaign" to show women — particularly 34 million women living in rural areas — that "they can be something more than wives and mothers."

It does not occur to these government people that, to many of that 34 million, being a wife and mother is "the most."

The Department of Agriculture dutifully provides information for rural women on such subjects as sewing, cooking and household chores. But the NACWEP says that is disgraceful — that these women should and must be shown that they are capable of more "important" things.

One of the reasons I've stayed on the sidelines of the ERA amendment squabble is that I think it should be left to individual states now. And also, though my wife favors ERA, I am yet unconvinced that it won't cost women more than they really want to pay.

Psychologist Dr. Joyce Brothers once said that when liberation is forced upon women — when they feel "forced" out of the housewife role, even those who prefer that role — then their freedom to choose is inhibited.

Then they are, in fact, less liberated.

Ann Landers

Rubadub dub, two in a tub

Dear Ann: I am 36, my wife is 33. We are both healthy. We have three kids aged nine, eight and six. My wife had her tubes tied to make sure we will have no more children.

She considers sex a hardship. From Aug. 1, 1975, to Dec. 31, 1976, we matle love 89 times only, an average of 5.235 times a month. I consider this not enough. She thinks it is too much. Am I too demanding? Is she normal? Please help! — Faithful Husband . . . So Far

Dear Faithful: If you were as good at romance as you are at math, you'd have no problem. Let it suffice to say, for a couple your age you are not breaking any records for frequency.

Try to put some romance and imagination into your love-making. A night in a hotel or motel can do wonders. Buy her an outrageous nightie or a bottle of great bubble-bath — and enjoy it together. (You heard me.) You're in a rut, Bub, and the only difference between a rut and a grave are the dimensions.

Dear Ann: I'm a senior citizen. For the past 10 years, I have taken responsibility for the household duties and the care of two elderly parents. Both have been very domineering. Dad passed away in November, 1974. Mother, a person who thinks only of herself, is an invalid who walks with a walker, uses a bedpan at night, and must have whatever she thinks of at once.

She talks on the same subject for hours and drives me out of my mind. I'm a nervous wreck, find it hard to breathe at times and cry for no reason at all.

I'm tired of living and I have no friends. If I dare go to a Senior Club for a few hours, when I get home I am lectured for hours. I have a brother who doesn't care to share anything. He says, "I have my own family problems. Please don't tell me your troubles."

I've gotten to the point where I hate everyone. Tell me what to do! I can't put my mother in a home. I promised my father that as long as she lived I would take care of her and I'm reminded of it daily. This is my home, by the way, and I pay for everything. Some joke — try and pay for everything on Social Security that comes to $246 a month. — It Hurts To Hate

Dear Friend: There has got to be a solution to your problem, but I confess I don't know what it is.

Everybody knows better than anybody. Please — readers, give me a hand with this one. I'm stumped.

Dear Ann Landers: I know you don't write a cooking column, but people seem to lay all sorts of things on you, so here's my pet gripe.

I have a lovely neighbor who brings over huge boxes of tomatoes that aren't ripe yet. I hate to be ungracious, but what can I do with them? Thanks, friend. — Overloaded

Dear O.: Place the unripe tomatoes in a plastic bag with a very ripe apple. Punch a few holes in the bag. A temperature of about 70 degrees is best for ripening — or they'll ripen more slowly in the fridge.

I got this suggestion from my good friend Dorsey Connors who writes a lively column for the Chicago Sun-Times.

Murder is top crime in film

No crime is more frequently protrayed in fiction than murder. It's the key offense in more than 90 per cent of the crime films, more than 95 per cent of the crime novels, and almost 100 per cent of the crime stage plays.

An airline attendant on a conventional jet flight between London and New York City walks an average of nine and a half miles if the plane is full.

Does your state require your picture on your driver's license? If so, did you frown when said photo was taken? You should've maybe. A lot of those official snapshot takers tell you to smile just before they trip the shutter. But in fact, when police officers stop cars for traffic violations, the drivers who frown far outnumber the drivers who smile at the moment.

GUARANTEED INCOME

Q. "What is the Speenhamland System?"

A. A social experiment in England about 180 years ago to give everybody there a guaranteed annual income. It was repealed in 1834, because, according to the historians, it was an utter disaster. The taxpayers literally had to pay their own wages inasmuch as the System lifted that burden from their employers. Workers therefore didn't care a hoot whether or not they put in a day's work for a day's pay. They just shrugged off the bosses' orders. And they slipped lower and lower down the wage scales right into poverty. Analysts subsequently decided the scheme did the most harm to the very people it was intended to help.

Q. "Where'd we get the slang term 'big wig' to mean 'important person'?"

A. Early in Europe, French King Louis XIV introduced wigs as a fashion style for men. But only judges, bishops and the nobility were permitted to wear the full length wigs. Others wore smaller versions. From then on, big wig was another phrase for VIP.

Rabbits' sex life improves

DEAR DR. MILLER: When I first got my rabbits last fall, they didn't turn out to be as sexually-oriented as I expected. But they're changing. Every month now, they've been getting sexier. This month, they're the most. Aren't most rabbits always ready for sex? Are mine the only ones turned on by spring? — T.H.

DEAR T.H.: While some rabbits are ready anytime, only about one in six does will do it in October, whereas in May it's not uncommon for the percentage of ready rabbits in a group to reach 100 . . . at least!

DEAR DR. MILLER: We want a puppy from a particular litter and plan to get him in about two weeks when he's seven weeks old. Unfortunately we're both working for the next two months so nobody will be home with the pup during the day, and we won't have all that much time for him at night, either. My mother was planning a visit later on but would come earlier if we asked her to. She likes dogs. The trouble is she's much too strict with them. My question is, would the puppy be better off just being relaxed and alone a lot or with a strict "grandmother" in the house? — D.T.

DEAR D.T.: Puppies are socially inclined, and for proper socialization as pets they need people around. That first month at home will be critical for your puppy in this respect. He'll be better off with too much discipline (at least he'd be getting attention) than none at all.

Lack of proper direction during that critical period not only allows bad habits to begin. Even more important, it may initiate undesirable emotional responses — particularly timidity or agressiveness.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Everyone has always said what a beautiful white cat Snowball is. We agree. Then last summer she got some sores on the edges of her ears and she didn't look so pretty. We thought they'd heal, but they're still there, kind of scabby most of the time. It spoils her beauty. We put gunk on the ears, but they don't heal right. I suppose you'll tell us we've got to chase her to the veterinarian. We put it off cause she doesn't like to ride in the car. — D.A.

DEAR D.A.: That car ride IS a good idea, and it can't come too soon. In fact, such a trip, in time, could save Snowball's life. Cats are particularly prone to squamous cell carcinoma of the ear flap. This cancer, unless surgically removed (early) will metastasize (spread) to other areas of the body, lungs in particular, and become untreatable.

The sanctimonious joggers

If there is anyone more sanctimonious than a person who jogs I don't know who he is.

They all act like they've just run from Garden City, L.I., to Innsbruck with a torch in their hand.

My husband has been jogging for five years now and I'm sick of it. Every morning, he comes into the kitchen after his run, a towel around the neck of his warm-up suit and grins, "Look at these muscles. And I'm not even breathing heavily."

"Don't give me that," I said. "You almost sucked up the morning paper in your nostrils."

"You should try it, you know," he said. "It firms up your muscles, gets you going in the mornings, and besides, it gives you discipline."

"So does a war, but I don't want to run to one."

"I ran two miles this morning. How long did it take me?"

"An hour and a half."

"You're kidding."

"Let me put it this way. If you were running after a beautiful girl from a centerfold, by the time you caught her you wouldn't remember why you were chasing her."

"That's pretty much what I'd expect from a woman who organized a car pool to the garbage cans."

That did it.

The next morning, I decided to join him. Let me tell you I have never had more respect for my husband than I did from the moment I stepped into the streets.

A '71 Mustang with a bumper sticker reading "I FOUND GOD" brushed by my body, making an instant convert out of me.

From out of nowhere, a pack of dogs nipped at my heels, forcing me to set a record for broad jump I didn't know existed.

There were crowds of people everywhere — milkmen, paperboys, joggers, muggers, insomniacs — all milling around the streets. I expected any moment to see Ben Grauer with a microphone standing under a big, silver ball.

Finally, I yelled to my husband, "I have to stop a minute."

"Are you tired?" he asked.

I forced a laugh. "Tired! I just have to tie my shoestring. I keep tripping over it."

"That's your tongue," he said.

"Of my shoe?"

"Of your mouth," he said.

There's nothing wrong with jogging, I guess, that a car pool couldn't fix.

Dr. Lamb

Buerger's disease not cancer

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have heard of several cases of Buerger's disease. It caused one acquaintance to lose his leg because a small sore on his toe wouldn't heal but traveled up so they had to amputate higher and higher until it healed. I have always wondered if this was a cancer of the blood since it didn't heal and if so would it be inherited?

Also how many generations back is cancer inherited? My grandmother's father died of a cancer and it worries me.

DEAR READER — No, Buerger's disease is not cancer. It is a rare disease that is associated with inflammation of the terminal arteries and veins and the formation of clots inside both. The inflammation and the clots are the basis for its other name, thromboangiitis obliterans, thrombo — meaning clots; angiitis — inflammation of the blood vessels; and obliterans — referring to obliteration of the opening in the blood vessels.

Gangrene is common because of the loss of blood supply to the toes or feet. Your friend's leg would not heal because he didn't have enough circulation to the area. When the amputation was done high enough, where the circulation was adequate the amputation site healed.

The exact cause of the disease is not known but it is made much worse by smoking. Anyone with this disease simply must not smoke at all. Nicotine stimulates the progression of the disease.

It affects men more often than women by a ratio of about 75 to one and occurs most often in men between the ages of 20 and 45 who smoke.

Because of inadequate circulation the disease may cause severe muscle cramps in the foot and leg. Painful cramping in the leg muscles from walking is common. As the disease progresses the victim may be able to walk shorter and shorter distances without pain. Stopping to rest will eliminate the pain. Foot cramps at night can and do occur from Buerger's disease.

The disease may also be associated with thrombophlebitis. Often thrombophlebitis in a young person is the first sign of underlying Buerger's disease. Although it occurs in all races it is most common in Ashkenazic Jews. One in 5,000 develop Buerger's disease while the rate for the general population in the U.S. is less than half that.

About inheriting cancer, common types are not directly inherited at all. In general, if someone in your immediate family has had cancer it increases your probability of developing it — but that doesn't mean you will. Your grandmother's grandfather is too far back for that to be a consideration.

There are some familial tendencies to develop cancer. One of the most common of these is breast cancer. A woman who has an immediate family member who has developed breast cancer is five times as likely to develop breast cancer as a woman with no immediate relatives who have had it.

It is generally believed that a person may have an inherited increased susceptibility to cancer but that is not the same thing as inheriting cancer. A few rare cancers do occur in families but this has nothing to do with inheriting the more common forms of cancer.

Astrographs

By Bernice Bede Osol
For Wednesday, May 4, 1977

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're prepared to pull out all the stops today for someone you love. Even though you may overdo it, it's for a good cause.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's likely you'll be the life of the party tonight. It's fine to enjoy yourself, but watch that tendency to overindulge.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Boldness and effort will bring you rewards today, but wishful thinking won't. Be a person of action.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your social plans won't work out if they encompass too many people. Everyone will have a better time in a small, controllable group.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This could be a profitable day, but it may not live up to your expectations — perhaps because you aspired too high.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Let your heart rule your head today where one you love is concerned. Your emotions will supply better answers than your logic would.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your chances for acquisition are very strong today, but not because of luck. It will only happen in areas where you contributed work or service.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You are both a doer and a talker today, but you'll still get results. However, they'd be better if you were less vocal.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you have to make a choice today as to where to devote your energies and resources, place the family first.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) People are impressed by your dynamic personality today. You'll really captivate them if you keep a low profile.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Something opportune might develop for you today careerwise. Handled wisely, it could increase your earnings.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Others, especially members of the opposite sex, find you particularly appealing today. You make more points with charm and wit than with logic.

Opening lead — 5 ♠

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Today's hand was played by Bruce Gowdy of Toronto in the match between Canada and Australia in the 1976 Olympiad.

West made the unfortunate opening lead of the five of spades. Bruce rose with dummy's ace, cashed the ace of diamonds, led a diamond, finessed his jack and played the king in order to get a club discard from dummy.

West ruffed with the nine of spades and Bruce still discarded that club. West led his last trump.

Bruce rose with dummy's king, led the seven of clubs and let it ride to West's queen. Now West shifted to the jack of hearts, but it was too late. Hearts were continued, Bruce ruffed the second one, cashed his ace of clubs ruffed a club in dummy and had the rest of the tricks.

A mighty lucky hand when you consider that South became declarer at three spades in the other room. The Canadian West opened the jack of hearts and after a series of unfortunate guesses South managed to go down one at the three-spade contract.

Ask the Jacobys

A North Carolina reader asks a series of questions on revokes. We will answer the first one today.

A revoke becomes established the moment the offender or the offender's partner plays to the next trick. It may not be corrected unless the non-offending side feels that the revoke has hurt them more than the penalty. In that case they may insist that the revoke be corrected and proper revision be made of subsequent tricks.

Bell, Dorsett go to Bucs, Cowboys

NEW YORK (AP) — The Tampa Bay Buccaneers, as expected, chose Ricky Bell, Southern California's 218-pound running back, as the No. 1 selection in the National Football League's draft of college talent Tuesday.

The Seattle Seahawks, picking second, traded their selection to Dallas, as rumored, and the Cowboys took Heisman Trophy winner Tony Dorsett, the most prolific ground-gainer in history, who led the University of Pittsburgh to the national championship.

The Los Angeles Rams tabbed All-American end Bob Brudzinski of Ohio State and projected him as a linebacker.

In return for giving up its first-round pick, Seattle received Dallas' first-round choice—No. 14 over-all—and three second-round selections, giving the Seahawks five picks in the first 54.

Bell walked into the packed ballroom at the Hotel Roosevelt seconds after his name was announced and strode to the microphone displaying a Tampa Bay jersey with a white No. 42, his uniform number in college.

"I waited a year-and-a-half for this day," Bell said. "I've got the ability to play in the NFL. There's no question in my mind. This is the biggest challenge of my life and the biggest challenge of the team's life to establish a winning trend.

"We can't do any worse than we did last year unless they expand the schedule to 16 games. Then we could go 0-16."

Bell referred to Tampa Bay's 0-14 record last year in its initial season of NFL play, the worst mark in the league's history.

The Cincinnati Bengals, using a pick acquired from Buffalo in the Sherman White deal, went for Eddie Edwards, an All-American defensive tackle from the University of Miami.

In rapid-fire succession, the New York Jets, who had hoped to get Dorsett, chose Marvin Powell, an offensive tackle from Southern California, and the New York Giants selected Powell's Southern Cal teammate, defensive tackle Gary Jeter.

The Atlanta Falcons, picking sixth, grabbed Warren Bryant, a long and lean offensive tackle from the University of Kentucky. The 6-foot-6, 249-pound Bryant was a starter since the fourth game of his freshman year.

The New Orleans Saints selected Joe Campbell, a defensive end from Maryland's Atlantic Coast Conference champions.

The eighth over-all choice was owned by Cincinnati in the Bill Bergey deal and the Bengals used it to take Wilson Whitley, a 268-pound defensive tackle from the University of Houston and winner of the Lombardi Trophy as the nation's No. 1 down lineman.

The Green Pay Packers selected Mike Butler, a 265-pound defensive tackle from the University of Kansas. The Packers, however, projected him as a defensive end.

The No. 10 pick was Kansas City's and the Chiefs selected Gary Green, a defensive back from Baylor.

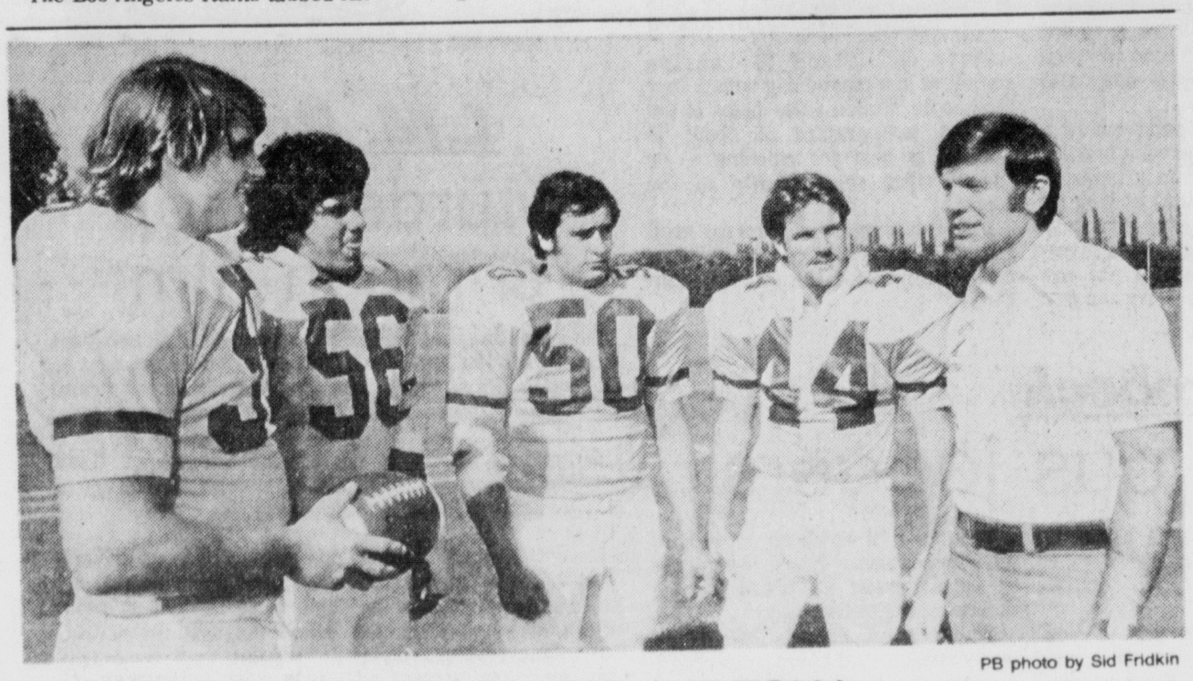

The Houston Oilers picked Morris Towns, a 260-pound offensive tackle from Missouri, who held his own against Oklahoma's Leroy Selmon in a 1975 match-up. Selmon was last year's No. 1 NFL draft pick.

Oklahoma State's Phillip Dokes, a 260-pound tackle, became the sixth defensive linemen in the first dozen selections when he was picked by the Buffalo Bills, using a choice acquired from Detroit in the J.D. Hill deal.

The Miami Dolphins went for still another defensive lineman, A.J. Duhe, a baby-faced 250-pound tackle from Louisiana State. He hails from the Mississippi River community of Reserve, La., and speaks in the Cajun dialect of his home town.

The 14th pick belonged to Seattle, one of four picks in the first two rounds acquired from Dallas in the Dorsett trade. The selection originally belonged to San Diego, which sent it to Dallas a year ago for quarterback Clint Longley.

The Seahawks, after using most of the 15 minutes allotted for the first three rounds, chose Steve August, a 243-pound offensive guard from the University of Tulsa.

SPRING BALL AT POLY

New Cal Poly head football coach Jim Jones discusses spring practice drills with (L to R) Scott Pickwith, Carlos Perez, Jay Giangregorio and Steve Boron. Spring drills will conclude with annual game against Alumni on Saturday, May 14.

Poly rounds into shape

Slowly, but surely, the Cal Poly football team under new head coach Jim Jones is rounding into shape.

Starting the fourth week of spring drills, Jones has had a chance to see the team and its individual players in scrimmage action and he and his staff of seven have been working on fundamentals with each player in an effort to bring Jones' philosophy of play into affect.

"We've seen some fine individual performances, and really, our concerns are more with individual performances, than how the team looks as a whole," Jones said.

The players the head coach seems to feel have made the greatest progress so far are Bronco returnees Tom Mondok (at offensive tackle), Brad Carter (tight end) and Jim Middleton (cornerback) and newcomers Jerry Bellentiere (offensive guard), Steve Taylor (quarterback), Dominic Licavoli (fullback), Scott Pickwith (linebacker) and Jay Giangregorio (linebacker).

With the start of football activity after a layoff since November, it was expected that injuries would slow the progress of some portion of the team. So far the running game has been hampered by the inactivity of Licavoli, who spent last week recuperating from a minor leg injury, but is expected back on the field this week.

In his dual role as head coach and offensive coordinator, Jones has been spending more time with the offense so far this spring. The key of the offense — quarterback — has been and will continue to be of major concern and interest for Jones.

"As we're progressing, I'm pleased with our passing game. Taylor has done well, but actually all three of the quarterback candidates have been coming along. Bart Moran (redshirt in 1976) has been looking sharp of late, and did well in our scrimmage game last Saturday. Sammy Ross (who started the last two games of '76 Broncos after regular Leo Costa was injured) also has impressed the coach.

"But Taylor (former Pomona High star who played at Mt. San Antonio College last year) has looked particularly good," said Jones, who notes Taylor's improvement as a leader.

Another important part of the success of the passing game — from the other end — is where wide receiver Teddy Myles really helps out, according to the coach.

"Teddy's experience and success as a receiver gives us the very necessary experience at that position. I had heard a lot about how good he was, before we began the spring drills. Believe me, he has lived up to all of the expectations. He is a super receiver in every way and will be utilized often next year."

Myles caught 32 passes for 369 yards and a touchdown to win first team All-California Collegiate Athletic Association honors, despite being injured late in the season and playing on a bad leg.

"Teddy is all healed and ready to play," Jones enthusiastically remarks.

Brad Carter has missed some spring action due to a shoulder injury, but has showed the qualities that Jones feels will make him his starting tight end, a position he played back of former All-Coast performer Jay Johnson, who was a senior last year.

At the team's Monday coaching staff meeting, Jones said another area the team is showing potential in is defense.

Bronco defensive coordinator Billie Drake, who played as a prep a decade ago under Jones at South Hills High, has installed a completely new defense for the Broncos to learn for 1977.

"It's a team-oriented defense," says Drake about his 50 Defense with four-deep in the secondary. "While the unit is not executing as well as we'd like to, we are getting some good individual play.

"The kids are adjusting well to it, but we simply do not have a lot of depth. We'll be counting on our freshmen heavily in our defensive scheme. I'm really looking forward to seeing them when they join us in August."

Mike Ivie is suspended by Padres

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Infielder Mike Ivie said he will return to the San Diego Padres tonight contrite after being suspended for a day and fined $400 for refusing to play third base.

"I'm really sorry this happened," Ivie said Monday night by telephone from his San Diego home. He went there from the ballpark shortly before the Padres defeated Philadelphia, 4-3, in the opener of a four-day series.

"I told them I would be willing to play third base," Ivie said.

Ivie was called into Manager John McNamara's office three hours before the game and told he would be shifted from first base to third.

Ivie complained that twice during spring training his hitting fell off while assigned to third base. He went from McNamara's office to talk to Buzzie Bavasi, Padres president, and then McNamara told him to take off his uniform and go home.

Ivie said he was in the dressing room when he was handed a letter saying he was suspended. He telephoned McNamara and said he would play third, he said, but it was too late.

Blazers win, await Lakers?

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A year ago, Johnny Davis was a little-known college junior and the Portland Trail Blazers had failed to make the National Basketball Association playoffs for the sixth straight season.

Monday night, Davis was the hero as the Blazers eliminated the Denver Nuggets from postseason play.

The 108-92 blitz was Portland's first lopsided victory in nine playoff games, and moves the Blazers into the Western Conference finals against the winner of the Golden State-Los Angeles series.

The conference finals begin Friday night, in Los Angeles if the Lakers advance and in Portland if the Warriors beat the Lakers.

The Warriors-Lakers set will be decided Wednesday night, when the teams meet at the Forum in Los Angeles in the seventh game of their series.

The home team has won each of the games so far, but the Warriors feel they can stop that trend. "When they've beaten us at the Forum, it's been like a velvet hammer," said Warriors forward Jamaal Wilkes. "They've beaten us, but not by much."

Meanwhile, Philadelphia and Houston enjoy a breather as they await the start of their series for the Eastern Conference championship. That series open Thursday night in Philadelphia.

"We were waiting to really play our game in this series, and this was it," said Portland Coach Jack Ramsay. "We were the aggressors tonight. We weren't yesterday."

Denver had beaten Portland Sunday, 114-105 in overtime, to force a sixth game in the best-of-seven series.

But the Blazers shot to a 13-2 lead in the first four minutes of the game Monday night, built a 22-point lead in the second quarter, and coasted from there.

"Portland can beat anybody," said Denver Coach Larry Brown. "If Jack can give (Maurice) Lucas and (Bill) Walton a rest and get the terrific response he did tonight from his bench, the Blazers can be really tough."

"The best I have seen them play," said Nuggets forward Bobby Jones. "They were really digging up the ball and knocking it away for fast breaks."

Portland's two speedy guards, Davis and Lionel Hollins, were doing most of the digging and knocking.

Davis received hardship status last season after his junior year at Dayton University and was Portland's second-round draft pick. He was told just before the game that he would start in place of injured Dave Twardzik.

"The coach told me to penetrate and to look for the shot," the soft-spoken Davis said. "He said to take the game to them and not get too cautious."

Davis hit 10 of 14 from the field, including a pair of back-to-back howitzers from at least 20 feet out in the third period. The 6-foot-2, 22-year-old guard led all scorers with 25 points.

Hollins had six assists and added 21 points, including a 40-footer at the first-quarter buzzer that gave Portland a 33-16 lead. Larry Steele came off the bench to score 14 points, 12 in the first half.

Walton's eight-foot hook shot gave Portland a 60-38 lead with 2:08 left in the first half. The Blazers led 62-45 at halftime.

Twice the Blazers led by as many as 25 points, the last time at 92-67 on Walton's 10-foot bank shot with 8:31 remaining in the game.

Texas too far away says Mike Marshall

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Relief pitcher Mike Marshall says he's not sure he wants a chance to play with the Texas Rangers.

Marshall, who was suspended by the Atlanta Braves April 24, was sold to the American League baseball team for the $20,000 waiver price Monday.

But in from his home here, Marshall said Monday he talked to the Rangers last week and told them, "I'm not interested."

Marshall, the only relief pitcher ever to win the Cy Young award, said he may meet with Texas later today. The Rangers are in Detroit for a two-game series that begins tonight.

"I owe Texas the benefit of meeting me," Marshall said.

Marshall said one reason he was reluctant to go with the Rangers was because it was far from his home.

"I wish Texas were somewhere near Michigan. Toronto, Chicago, Cleveland and Milwaukee are a lot closer," he said.

Marshall is working on a doctoral degree in kinesiology at Michigan State University.

He said his decision whether to stay in baseball will depend on other things than location— and one of those factors may be whether the team would use him as a starter.

"I think starting me would suit me just fine," the 34-year-old said. "I am not going to get into a situation like Atlanta, where the front office and field manager are thinking in different ways," he said.

"I'm going to have to know exactly what I'm going to be doing."

Marshall has a 1-0 record but a 9.00 earned-run average in six innings this year.

San Diego to get new bowl game

DENVER (AP) — Western Athletic Conference officials have announced the WAC will end its commitment to the Fiesta Bowl in Tempe, Ariz., after this year because the two major Arizona schools are leaving the conference.

At its meeting Monday, the conference's governing President's Council also approved a resolution endorsing plans for a major post-season college football bowl to be played in San Diego and gave tentative approval to admission of two new schools to the conference.

The WAC football champion team has hosted the Fiesta Bowl on the campus of Arizona State University since the annual contest began six years ago.

But Arizona State and the University of Arizona are leaving the Western Athletic Conference in 1978 to join the Pacific 8 Conference.

WAC officials said the conference champion would host Fiesta Bowl VII, scheduled for Dec. 25 unless the champion is Brigham Young University. If BYU wins the title, the second-place team would play because of BYU's religious orientation.

"The presidents are aware that the Fiesta, like all post-season games, must appeal to local fans by being able to consider in-state institutions as likely candidates for an invitation to the game," said WAC Commissioner Stan Bates.

Officials of the Fiesta Bowl and the conference announced they had agreed to end the contractual arrangement on June 30, 1978, the date Arizona and Arizona State leave the conference.

The council voted Monday to add the University of Hawaii and the University of Nevada-Las Vegas to the conference, if the schools meet certain conditions.

The WAC school presidents also agreed to continue considering the membership applications of Utah State University and New Mexico State University.

The conference presidents endorsed San Diego's proposed Carnation Bowl after a briefing by San Diego State University President Brage Golding, who reported that steps are being taken to secure NCAA certification for the bowl scheduled to begin in 1978.

San Diego State was recently accepted into WAC membership beginning July 1, 1978.

Hawaii will join the WAC on July 1, 1979, and UNLV on July 1, 1980, the Presidents' Council said, if certain requirements are met. Hawaii must reach a financial arrangment with other WAC schools on travel costs, the presidents said. UNLV will have to attain Division I football status and assure adequate football and basketball facilities.

Report Russell to take big cut

SEATTLE (AP) — Bill Russell has agreed to take roughly half what he would get as coach and general manager of the Seattle SuperSonics as a payoff to buy out the last year of his contract, the Post-Intelligencer reported Monday.

The P-I quoted only "a reliable source", who was not identified, and said the owner of the National Basketball Association club, Sam Schulman, had refused to confirm the report.

"I have nothing definitive to relate," Schulman said. "I chatted with his lawyers on Friday, but there is nothing specific to report. I don't even think Bill is in town."

Russell could not be reached for comment.

Earlier, the P-I had reported that Schulman had offered the coaching job to Jerry Tarkanian, basketball coach at the University of Nevada-Las Vegas. Both Schulman and Tarkanian have denied that report.

Dodgers get pitching, fielding and luck

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — Doug Rau and Lady Luck proved to be a winning daily double Monday night as the Dodgers righted themselves and took a 3-1 game from the visiting New York Mets.

Rau (4-0) scattered seven hits, struck out six and walked three in eight innings as he bested Jerry Koosman (1-3) in a typical Dodgers-Mets pitching duel before 28,017.

"I have a great infield behind me," Rau said modestly. "They just get better and better every year. We have some of the best hands in baseball in our infield. Yes, I think it's the best in the National League, better than Cincinnati's."

Davey Lopes and Ron Cey made sparkling plays behind Rau in the first and sixth innings. Lopes took a hit away from Felix Millan and Cey took one away from Mike Vail on a good bunt. Dusty Baker made a nice running catch in left field on a drive by Koosman to open the second inning and threw out a runner at the plate in the fifth.

Rau, who gave up a leadoff home run to Vail in the second inning for the Mets' only run, had a hand in driving in the tying run in the third inning.

After Koosman walked Steve Yeager to start the inning, Rau singled Yeager around to third on a hit and run play. Lopes brought him in with a sacrifice fly.

"Preston (third base coach Preston Gomez) went through a whole series of signs," related Rau. "He put on the hit and run, took it off and then put it on again. I was pretty confused. But I went to college and I stuck with him all the way.

"I saw Yeager break out of the corner of my eye. I was looking for a slider and that was what Koosman threw. I was lucky and I'd rather be lucky than good. Koosman was unlucky. He probably pitched a better game than I did."

Koosman also gave up seven hits, but struck out eight while walking three. He fanned Reggie Smith three times, Cey twice and Rick Monday twice.

The Dodgers won it in the eighth.

Lopes whacked a one-out double and scored easily when Russell lined a single to right field. Vail made a foolish attempt to throw Lopes out and threw the ball away, Russell racing around to third.

After Smith struck out, Cey walked and Steve Garvey beat out an infield hit driving in Russell.

"Koosman threw a great game," said Russell. "He mixed up his pitches very well. Millan shaded toward second and opened up the right side and I got a breaking pitch I could handle. I've had good luck going to right field all year."

Charlie Hough pitched the ninth and fanned two of the three batters he faced to record his seventh save and lower his earned run average to 1.55.

"We don't worry about being behind," enthused manager Tommy Lasorda. "We know we'll get there. One guy picks up another. It's been that way since spring training and it's a great feeling, believe me.

"Koosman pitched a great game. That's the best pitching we've seen this year. But Rau pitched just as well. This series will be a real test for our hitting."

DODGER DATA — Burt Hooton (2-1) faces Nino Espinosa (2-0) tonight.

Russell has hit in seven straight games (15-for-30, .500) He has five RBIs and has scored four runs.

Lasorda on Baker: "He's a hell of a player. I wouldn't trade him for (Dave) Kingman right now."

It was Reggie Smith's first start since last Friday when he injured his Achilles' tendon. He got on base on a walk once and favored it noticeably rounding second base on Cey's flyout.

The Dodgers have hit 50 doubles in 22 games. Last year they had 26.

The Dodgers placed catcher Ellie Rodriguez on irrevocable waivers and the Mets did the same with pitcher Ray Sadecki. Both players will be given their unconditional releases. Rodriguez lost a spot on the roster when he separated his collarbone in winter league play.

Koosman is now 6-12, lifetime against the Dodgers. He has beaten them fewer times than any other club in the league. His last win over the Angelenos was August 28, 1975.

Lasorda is right about Mets' pitching testing Dodger hitting. Seven of last year's 12 games between the two were decided by one run. The Dodgers were 4-2 at home and 3-3 on the road last year against the New Yorkers.

Cal Poly still playing 'David'

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

Cal Poly Pomona shot down another NCAA Goliath Monday afternoon at Kellogg Field by filling its slingshot with nine singles and a double for seven runs.

San Diego State became the Broncos second ranked (19th) victim in the span of a week as Cal Poly hung on to down the Aztecs, 7-6.

With the victory, Cal Poly improved its seasonal record to 13-26 as San Diego St. dropped to 41-11.

"We win every time we play a top ranked team!" explained Cal Poly's John Scolinos the Broncos knocked off their fourth highly ranked team. We did it against Hawaii, Fullerton and UC Riverside when they were on top.

The Broncos rocked Jim Leicht of Fullerton for seven runs on six hits as Poly jumped out to a 7-3 advantage before the Aztecs began to hammer starting pitcher Randy Nelson.

Nelson was given a 5-0 lead to work with through the first three innings as he hurled hitless ball before his pitching fell apart in the fourth

San Diego was turned away in the ninth by Chuck Belk with the bases loaded after cutting the Poly margin in the eighth to one (7-6). Belk came in to douse the Aztecs' uprising as he fanned two batters with the tying and winning runs at second and third.

Scolinos commented, "The key today was that we were ready for them more than they were for us. Nelson wasn't really on as he struggled. If he had pitched his normal type of game we would have breezed over them.

"We hit the ball well," added Scolinos. "We finally hit the ball in some key spots with men in scoring position. And Belk did a great job in the ninth in relief of Chet Gray who bailed Nelson out of trouble in the eighth with the tying run on base."

Bob Reyes drove in two runs with a key hit to right in the second as he was 2-for-3 at the plate. Jay Johnson was 2-for-2 with two walks, two runs scored and a double. And Mitch Milosvitch was 2-for-4 as Poly banged out 10 hits.

Scolinos noted that history might have been made Monday when Dorothy Dunn umpired on the base paths after one of the regular umpires failed to show up.

"She's the first women umpire in NCAA history as far as I know," said Scolinos. "I've been coaching for 30 somewhat years and that's the first women umpire I've seen. And she did an excellent job."

Sports briefs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams obtained former UCLA defensive lineman Cliff Frazier on a conditional basis Monday from the Philadelphia Eagles.

If Frazier makes the team, Los Angeles will reimburse Philadelphia with a 1978 National Football League draft choice.

Frazier was the middle guard on the UCLA team that beat Ohio State 23-10 in the 1976 Rose Bowl game.

CINCINNATI (AP) — St. Louis pitcher John Denny, whose 5-0 record is the winningest mark in the National League, suffered a hamstring pull Monday night against the Cincinnati Reds.

Denny entererd the game with a 2.91 ERA but trailed 1-0 with a four-hitter when the injury occurred while covering first base in the seventh inning.

NEW YORK — Boston catcher Carlton Fisk, who batted .536 and hit in each of his team's seven games last week, was named the American League Player of the Week for the period ending May 1.

NEW YORK — Dan Driessen, who took over the first baseman's job for the Cinncinnati Reds after Tony Perez was traded, batted .429 for the week ending May 1 and was named the National League Player of the Week for that period.

INDIANAPOLIS — Sid Collins, the longtime voice of the Indiannapolis 500-mile race, was found dead in his apartment. He was 54.

Pomona-Pitzer wins golf title

REDLANDS — Peter Graves, with a two-day score of 149 was the individual winner and sparked Pomona-Pitzer's golf team to victory in the SCIAC Golf Finals Monday.

The Sagehens, with a score of 928, were 25 strokes better than Claremont-Mudd's 953. Redlands (998) was third, La Verne (1,017) fourth, Occidental (1,042) fifth and Whittier (1,043) sixth.

IN CONCERT AT DUGAN'S MUSIC CO.

The renowned musician, Mr. Norm Nelson, will be in concert Wednesday, May 4, 7:30 p.m. at Dugan's Music Co., Montclair Plaza. Mr. Nelson's program will include many popular hit tunes, new and nostalgic world favorites, and will feature the theatre-style music that was in vogue in the 1920's and 1930's.

Mr. Nelson has had a life-long interest in music and his musical abilities show it. He started studying music at the age of five. When in his teens Mr. Nelson left his classical studies to explore the popular musical field.

During his musical career Mr. Nelson has appeared with stars such as Vaughn Monroe, Gene Austin, and Bobby Christin, and he has completed a number of recordings.

For the past few years Mr. Nelson has been on staff with Gulbransen CBS Musical Instruments, Division of CBS Inc. He's touring again and he'll be in our town. Admission to his engagement at Dugan's Music Co. is free. Gulbransen is sponsoring his tour to give people the opportunity to hear the sounds of Gulbransen's newest theatre organ. In any case, Mr. Nelson's engagement will provide us with a fresh and different entertainment possibility.

RADIO SHACK REPORTS MARCH SALES UP 24%

FORT WORTH, TX — Radio Shack, the nationwide electronics store chain, recorded sales of $76,622,000 for the month of March 1977, a gain of 24% over sales of $61,784,000 for March 1976.

Radio Shack's parent company, Tandy Corporation (NYSE), announced that its consolidated sales for the month were $82,327,000, an increase of 23% over sales of $67,162,000 for March 1976.

"March sales trends were encouraging," stated Charles D. Tandy, chairman and chief executive officer. "The continuing strength in non-CB merchandise is providing a favorable backdrop for a smooth transition in citizens band lines from 23-channel to 40-channel equipment.

"In addition," Tandy continued, "sales remain particularly strong in Canada and the improving trend in international sales continued through March."

Radio Shack has more than 5,000 stores and dealers in all 50 states and Canada, and, operating under the name Tandy International Electronics, nearly 500 stores in England, Australia, Belgium, Holland, Germany, France and Japan.

Alta Loma runners set records in HL

By MARK GRIP
PB Correspondent

Alta Loma, Ontario, and Walnut dominated the Hacienda League track preliminaries at Chaffey College Monday, but it was two Alta Loma runners who set records in the 880-yard run to highlight the action.

Joel Hope raced to a new HL record in the varsity division in a time of 1:55.6. Hope's mark bested the record held by Gary Maddox of 1:57.8 of Workman High in 1969 when that school was a member of the Hacienda League.

One of the valley's best distance runners, Hope tried to break his own record in the mile run (4:20.5). Walnut's Bob Watson was on Hope's tail until the senior spurted with a speedy kick to finish the race 20 yards ahead in 4:30.9.

In the frosh-soph 880 the Braves' Randy Brown sped to a new record of 1:58.6 bettering the old mark of Bonita's Ray Hall in 1975 by almost seven seconds(2:05.1). Brown also won the frosh-soph mile in 4:44.9.

Another frosh-soph record fell on the last event of the day to be completed, the pole vault. Walnut's Steve Keffer vaulted 13-feet even to shatter the previous 12-6 mark held by Sonny Medina (Ontario) last year. Alta Loma's Dave Edsill matched the old mark with a 12-6 effort.

Ontario's Rod Davis broke the frosh-soph high jump record of 5-10½ with his 6-0¾ leap.

Walnut's Kevin Morgan and Alta Loma's Rick Gundrum both ran 10.1 in the varsity 100-yard dash to win their respective heats and set the stage for a close race in the finals Thursday. Walnut's Jeff Winner won the other heat at 10.4.

Gundrum came back to win his 220 heat in 22.6 while Bonita's Sanford Coggins took the other in 23.0. Morgan was scheduled to run in the same heat with Coggins, but didn't and will be running in two relays, the 100, and 440 on Thursday.

Morgan won a 440 heat in 51.9 and Walnut's David King took the other in 52.3. King also won his 330 low-hurdle heat in 40.4 with Ontario's Thomas Warren winning the second in 39.7.

Alta Loma's Bill Taylor won the first 120 high-hurdle race in 14.8 and placed second in the 330-lows. John Donaldson won the 120-highs in 15.3.

Preliminaries were not held for varsity field events, but the frosh-soph field events were decided with San Dimas' Keith Walker winning the long jump in 20-8½, and Royal Oak's Dee Munson the shot put in 45-9 in additon to Keffer and Davis.

The varsity girl's and boy's finals will be held Thursday at 3 p.m. on the Chaffey College artificial track surface. The frosh-soph finals will be held Wednesday.

The 2A prelims and finals will be run at Valencia High in Placentia.

At last, your own personal conservation expert.

At Southern California Edison, we realize that conserving energy is no easy matter for anybody. And we truly appreciate all you've been doing to help.

The problem is that the need to conserve is still with us. And it calls for personal involvement on everyone's part. To help, we're putting our computer to work for you in a new way.

This new computerized conservation program is called S.A.V.E.S. (Sure Actions for Valuable Energy Savings).

Basically what this service does is give you a personalized computer print-out that shows ways to conserve electricity in your home that otherwise may not have occurred to you.

How does our computer know your electricity habits?

You tell it. Simply by filling out a short questionnaire we'll send you. The questions ask about your appliances, home characteristics and your family's present use of electricity.

Of course, along with energy conservation, S.A.V.E.S. can help hold down your electricity bills.

So fill out the coupon below and we'll mail you a questionnaire. Then we'll send you your own personalized energy savings program.

From your very own expert on conservation.

Miller play 'a fiasco'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arthur Miller's new play "The Archbishop's Ceiling" is a muddled and dismal fiasco about freedom of speech.

In a wary move, the noted author labels the piece which had its world premiere Saturday night at the Kennedy Center "a dramatic meditation," thereby implying departure from any sort of traditional stagecraft.

Audiences, nevertheless, still expect more from him than the maze of melodramatic claptrap, amateurish dialogue lapses and soap opera lechery that a decent cast is forced to contend with. Sincere purpose has been badly served.

The present day locale is a European capital where a famous novelist named Sigmund defiantly battles rigid ideological conformity. His recent letter to the United Nations about the right of artists to be uncensored has stirred a brouhaha at home and abroad.

Pretty soon a rich American litterateur, Adrian, arrives in an attempt to persuade his friend to emigrate. Then Marcus, another prosperous penman, returns home from foreign travels with a similar pitch. They talk and talk.

Skirting around the central threesome are Martin, an undercover police agent, and Maya, the text's romantic fulcrum. Everybody has shared her favors except Adrian who has been dreaming of her right thigh ever since he saw her in a mini-skirt.

The cross-cutting of the two themes — whether the artist should flee to safety, and everyone's bedroom itch — becomes ridiculous. Silliness is enhanced by the recurrent possibility that government eavesdropers are hearing all that is said.

This is the gimmick that provides the play's title. The room is in the ex-mansion of an ousted archbishop, and maybe a microphone has been planted in the chandelier. We never find out.

Several other plot complications are belatedly introduced by Miller to keep a play going that really has no dramatic development whatever. Can Adrian also be arrested as a Zionist and dealer in illegal currency? Is Marcus a friend, a tool of the state or just jealous of Sigmund's fame and success with Maya?

The script is strewn with long and dull expository passages, banal cliches such as "so what else is new?" and feeble metaphors like "it's just there, like blood in the veins." To be up-to-date, Miller has put in a few queasy vulgarisms.

Arvin Brown, who was originally to do the play at the Long Wharf Theater in New Haven, Conn., which he heads, has directed with limited success. He can hardly be blamed for the speeches, though, or for need to move performers periodically from the towering central and highly realistic set to bare side stage areas supposedly somewhere else.

John Cullum energetically portrays the beleagured author; Tony Musante and Douglass Watson the other writers. Watson delivers his lines as crack-of-doom orations. Josef Sommer hovers as the ambiguous agent.

Bibi Andersson has come from Sweden to be everyman's yen, but her slight accent occasionally defies comprehension and her behavior is coltily gawkish for a femme fatale. BaraCristen Hansen contends with a small, meaningless part.

David Jenkins devised the marble pillared set, Bill Walker the everyday costumes and Ron Wallace prosaic lighting. At the final curtain, Watson delivers a line that well summarizes all that has taken place: "Nothing. Just a game." "The Archbishop's Ceiling" is theatrical tiddlywinks.

Music school slates annual benefit concert

The Claremont Community School of Music will present several faculty members in the annual benefit concert to be held at Claremont Collegiate School, 3105 N. Padua Ave., at 4 p.m. Saturday.

Performers are Carol Hendrixson and Ralph Pierce, piano; Daniel Strang, violin; Richard Mooney, cello and Steve Marcussen, trumpet. The program includes three Etudes and Ballade in F minor for Piano by Chopin; Sonata in F Major by Haydn; "Liebesfreud" by Kreisler, "Slavonic Dance" by Dvorak-Kresler, "Scherzo-Valse" by Chabrier for Violin; Sonata by Vivaldi, Gavotte by Popper for Cello; "Sinfonia Con Tromba" by Torelli for trumpet.

The concert is an effort to raise money to support and further the program of the school and to provide music scholarships to deserving individuals. The public is invited. Tickets are available at the Claremont Community School of Music, Mountain and Bonita avenues, or at the door.

CCSM is a non-profit institution providing opportunities for learning and enjoying music to people of all ages, regardless of their economic or racial background.

BEASTLY SIGHT — Mary Herbener portrays Beauty and Steve Stoerman is the Beast in the Citrus College production of "Beauty and the Beast." The children's fantasy will be staged in the Little Theater at 8 p.m. Friday and at 1 p.m. Saturday. Tickets are $1.

'Porgy and Bess' to play Pantages

"Porgy and Bess," the George Gershwin masterpiece, opens a five-week engagement May 17 at the Pantages Theater in Hollywood.

Direct from its record-breaking engagements in New York, Boston, Cleveland and Chicago, the company of 100 singers, dancers and musicians will give eight performances a week Tuesday through Sunday evenings with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

Gershwin, fascinated by the play "Porgy," recognized it as a perfect vehicle for opera using blues and jazz idioms. After spending considerable time in Charleston, South Carolina, studying the gullah dialect and gathering impressions of the Catfish Row natives, he composed the score for what he called a "folk opera" in which unforgettable songs — "Summertime," "A Woman Is a Sometime Thing," "I Got Plenty O' Nuttin'" and others — were tightly integrated with the drama. Since its first performance in Boston Sept. 30, 1935, "Porgy and Bess" has been acclaimed throughout the world. It is considered America's finest operatic creation.

Tickets are on sale at the Pantages Theater box office, through all Mutual, Ticketron and Liberty agencies and by mail.

Pomona to stage comedy

Pomona College will present Murray Schisgal's comedy, "Luv," in Holmes Hall at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Admission is free.

It is the senior acting recital of Sunny Welles. Directed by Robert S. Johnson, technical production coordinator, the play will also feature Ric Robertson and Jim Baehmann. Deborah Wilson is designer.

Welles, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Welles of Glendora, has appeared in a number of plays at Pomona College.

"Luv" was first presented on Broadway in the early '60s starring Anne Jackson, Eli Wallich and Alan Arkin. It is Schisgal's humorous tribute to the theater of the absurd and draws elements from Ionesco, Beckett, Pinter and Albee.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "WHAT IS CHALK MADE OF?"

PATTY DEYLING
LAKESIDE, CA

A. CHALK IS A KIND OF SOFT, WHITE LIMESTONE MADE UP OF THE SHELLS OF TINY SEA ANIMALS CALLED FORAMINIFERA

When you write with chalk on a chalkboard you are writing with a soft limestone rock made from the shells of tiny sea animals called foraminifera (pronounced foram-i-NIF-er-a). When these animals die, their tiny shells sink to the ocean floor. Long ago, in some ancient sea, thick layers of their limey shells became cemented and compressed into a soft, white limestone called "chalk."

To make writing chalk, the chalk rock is crushed into a fine powder. The best chalkboard chalk is about 95 per cent chalk. The chalk powder is mixed in a big mixing kettle with a liquid containing a binding material to keep the finished crayon from crumbling. The chalk paste is then pressed into the shape of a chalk crayon and baked until it is hard enough to write with. By adding coloring pigment, chalk crayons can be made in any color. Chalk can be used in making many other useful products such as putty, paints, and even toothpaste.

Salt Lake's white dove taking on a new hue

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Visitors to this city nearly surrounded by mountains often come expecting clear, pristine air. But the city, known 100 years ago as the "white dove of the West," is now often grey with air pollution.

On days when the hills are obscured and the air smells of sulfur dioxide, newcomers and visitors compare the area with Los Angeles.

Alvin Rickers, state air quality director, says air-stagnation alerts are at a record high along the Wasatch Front, where about 75 per cent of Utah's 1.2 million population lives.

The problem, Rickers said, is the fact the valley acts as a bowl-like trap, contributing to temperature inversions. They occur every day of the year except during storms, he said. In an inversion, air aloft is warmer than air close to the ground, causing pollutants to build up in the thin cooler layers.

High pressure, which has prevented major winter storms from crossing the Intermountain area this season, has caused unprecedented pollution levels in Utah. It also has brought an area-wide drought.

An air-stagnation alert, one step below an "activated emergency episode plan," means there is a "potential" for pollution buildup, Ricker said.

He said his office has issued "emergency" alerts several times already this year. Operations at nearby Kennecott Copper, the biggest polluter, were shut down for two days.

"Since it is the only important source (of sulfur dioxide), actions are aimed right at Kennecott," Ricker said.

He said nearly 95 per cent of sulfur dioxide pollutants along the Wasatch Front come from Kennecott's plant.

Other pollutants are not so important, he said. "The place looks terrible some times, but our concentrations are relatively low."

Enviromental Protection Agency officials have given Kennecott until July 31 to complete a new stack that Ricker says will cut emissions dramatically. The stack rises just off Great Salt Lake's south shore, 10 miles west of downtown Salt Lake City.

Emissions are measured by opacity, which involves beaming light through them. Ricker said Kennecott's emissions are 100 per cent opaque now, but will drop to less than 20 per cent after the new stack is installed.

Ouija board

The name of the ouija board, used in fortune telling, comes from the French word for yes (oui) combined with the German word for yes (ja).

PUBLIC NOTICE

ORDINANCE NO. 2830

AN ORDINANCE OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF POMONA, CALIFORNIA, AMENDING CHAPTER 14.3 (REGULATION OF BATHS, SAUNA BATHS, MASSAGE ESTABLISHMENTS AND SIMILAR BUSINESSES) OF ORDINANCE NO. 1673, ALSO KNOWN AS THE CODE OF THE CITY OF POMONA, BY AMENDING SECTION 14.3-15 (REVOCATION AND SUSPENSION OF PERMIT) THEREOF.

BE IT ORDAINED by the Council of the City of Pomona, California, as follows:

SECTION 1. That Section 14.3-15 of Chapter 14.3 of Ordinance No. 1673, also known as the Code of the City of Pomona, California, is hereby amended to read as follows:

"No permit shall be revoked until after a hearing shall have been held before the city administrator, or his designee, to determine just cause for such revocation. Such cause includes, but is not limited to any violation of this chapter or if the business is maintained as a public nuisance or if a permittee negligently fails to perform a duty expressly enjoined upon him under this Chapter or if a permittee has been convicted of a violation of sections 266(i), 315, 316, 318 or 647(b) of the Penal Code.

Notice of such hearing shall be given in writing and served at least five days prior to the date of the hearing thereon. The notice shall state the grounds of the complaint against the holder of such permit, or against the business carried on by the permittee at the massage establishment, and shall state the time and place where such hearing will be had.

Said notice shall be served upon the permit holder by delivering the same to such person or by leaving such notice at the place of business or residence of the permit holder in the custody of a person of suitable age and discretion. In the event the permit holder cannot be found, and the service of such notice cannot be made in the manner herein provided, a copy of such notice shall be mailed, postage fully prepaid, addressed to the permit holder at his place of business or residence at least five days prior to the date of such hearing.

At the hearing, the permit holder shall have the right to appear personally before the city administrator, or his designee, and present evidence on his behalf to him, and to confront and cross-examine witnesses. The permit holder shall also be entitled to be represented by an attorney at said hearing. The decision of the administrator, or his designee, as to whether the grounds of the complaint are sustained, shall rest solely upon the evidence presented at the hearing. The hearing will be informally conducted and the rules of evidence followed by the court shall not apply and hearsay evidence, otherwise inadmissible in a court of law, shall be admissible, but the city administrator's, or his designee's, decision shall not be based solely on such hearsay evidence. The administrator, or his designee, shall file with the city clerk within thirty (30) days after the matter is submitted, written findings of fact and his decision, and his decision shall be final forthwith."

SECTION 2. The City Clerk shall certify to the passage and adoption of this ordinance, causing it to be published as required by law, and it shall thereafter be in full force and effect thirty (30) days after the date of its final reading.

APPROVED, PASSED AND ADOPTED this 18th day of April, 1977.

JONES as duly appointed Trustee under and pursuant to Deed of Trust recorded December 6, 1974, in book T9159, page 987, of Official Records in the office of the County Recorder of Los Angeles County, State of California, will sell at public auction to highest bidder for cash (payable at time of sale in lawful money of the United States) in the entrance lobby, Federal Building, 11000 Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles, California, all right, title and interest conveyed to and now held by him under said Deed of Trust in the property situated in said County and State described as:

Lot 13 of Tract No. 17802, in the City of Pomona, as per map recorded in book 456 pages 22 to 27 of Maps, in the office of the County Recorder of said county.

The street address and other common designation, if any, of the real property described above is purported to be: 2424 Lyndale Avenue, Pomona, California.

The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address and other common designation, if any, shown herein.

Said sale will be made, but without covenant or warranty, express or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining principal sum of the note(s) secured by said Deed of Trust, to-wit: $18,950.09, with interest thereon, as provided in said note(s), advances, if any, under the terms of said Deed of Trust, fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust.

The beneficiary under said Deed of Trust heretofore executed and delivered to the undersigned a written Declaration of Default and Demand for Sale, and a written Notice of Default and Election to Sell. The undersigned caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located.

Date: April 26, 1977
